CREATING AN ARMY WITH THE MORTEM ET GLORIAM ARMY LISTS

Use the army lists to create your own customised armies using the Mortem et Gloriam Army Builder.

There are few general rules to follow:

1. An army must have at least 2 generals and can have no more than 4.
2. You must take at least the minimum of any troops noted and may not go beyond the maximum of any.
3. No army may have more than two generals who are Talented or better.
4. Unless specified otherwise, all elements in a UG must be classified identically. Unless specified otherwise, if an optional characteristic is taken, it must be taken by all the elements in the UG for which that optional characteristic is available.
5. Any UGs can be downgraded by one quality grade and/or by one shooting skill (Skilled to Experienced or Experienced to Unskilled) representing less strong, tired or understrength troops. If any bases are downgraded all in the UG must be downgraded. So Average-Experienced skirmishers can always be downgraded to Poor-Unskilled.
6. Points are shown for troops with all mandatory characteristics applied. Points have been rounded to the nearest whole number. If quality or shooting skill is downgraded, then the points (including the points for any optional characteristics) will need to be adjusted.
7. An army entirely of Cavalry, Chariots, Camelry or Infantry with the Dismountable characteristic may choose the No Camp option.

Where allies are allowed, they must conform to the following rules:

1. An ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list being used.
3. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.
4. Unless specified in the notes, the general must be the same type as the army commander in their own army's list but cannot be legendary.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

Where an internal ally is allowed, and no contingent is specified they must conform to the following rules:

1. Each internal ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. The total number of troops taken of each type in the entire army must not exceed the maxima for that troop type.
3. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list if there is enough allowance for a UG after the core army itself has taken the minimum. For example: An army has 4-12 cavalry (UG size 4,6) and 18-32 spearmen (UG size 6,8,9) as compulsory troops with 2 internal allies. The core army must take 4 cavalry and at least 18 spearmen. The first ally must take 4 cavalry and at least 9 spearmen. The second ally must take 4 cavalry but cannot take the 9 spearmen as this would exceed the 32 spearmen limit for the army.

4. If a list requires a proportion of a troop type to be upgraded or regraded, then the army as a whole must comply with this requirement. Internal allies do not have to comply these requirements. For example: $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of Turcomans must be upgraded from Experienced to Skilled shooting. An internal ally might have all Experienced as long as the army as a whole has $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ Skilled.
5. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

As a courtesy to your opponent when you deploy your troops, you should describe each UG fully; type, training, quality, protection, melee weaponry, shooting skill and weaponry and characteristics. You should also explain how any unusual troop types in your army function and any special rules including Stakes, Caltrops, Barricades and Obstacles and troop types such as Battle Wagons.

The easiest way to calculate points is to use the downloadable on-line army builder at www.mortem-et-gloriam.co.uk. Use this and all you do is use drop downs for the troop classifications and it does all the work for you. For those who prefer pen and paper, or who want to doodle some approximate designs before loading an army up, we have provided the points values with the lists. If a discrepancy exists in the points values between these lists and the army builder, then the army builder has the correct value.

FRIENDLY AND SCENARIO GAMES

Feel free to vary the troop classifications for friendly and scenario games. An interesting aspect of scenario games can be to see what the effect is from representing troops in a different manner.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION

Around 1595 BCE, Mursilis I, king of the newly created Hittite monarchy, marches from central Anatolia over the Taurus mountains, takes Aleppo and marches down the Euphrates and captures Babylon. It is the high point of the Hittite Old Kingdom. At this point Mesopotamia is split four-ways, Hurrians in the north-west, Assyrians in the north-east, Kassites ruling Babylonia and the Dynasty of Sealand in the south. The Mitanni a Hurrian dynasty establish pre-eminence and are the first empire to adopt the widespread use of the chariot.

During the Second Intermediate Period the chariot is introduced to Egyptian armies. The Hyksos are overthrown and the New Kingdom arises. Under Ahmose, Tuthmosis I and Tuthmosis III (1545 to 1450 BCE) the Egyptians exert their influence as far as the Euphrates. A counter-offensive under the leadership of the Mitanni drives the Egyptians out of Syria.

The power of the Hittites is revived. The Hittites quickly break the power of the Mitanni empire and exert their influence over the cities of Syria and Canaan. Egypt is pre-occupied with a religious revolution under Akhenaten and only under the Nineteenth Dynasty attempt to re-assert control over Syria. Ramesses II is defeated at the battle of Kadesh in 1275 BCE.

In Crete and later Greece new civilisations appear. The Minoan civilisation flourishes from 1600 to 1400 BCE but then is superseded by the Mycenaean civilisation based in mainland Greece. The Mycenaeans contact Hittite vassal states in western Asia Minor. The Iliad appears to be a story of one such conflict.

The history of the next two hundred and fifty years is confused. Various tribes, collectively known as the Sea Peoples invade the Hittite, Syro-Canaanite and Egyptian kingdoms. The Hittite Empire collapses. Cities in Syria and Canaan are sacked and the Egyptians fight off several invasions, eventually settling some of the surviving Sea Peoples in Canaan. The New Kingdom Egyptian kingdom collapses leading to the Third Intermediate Period.

In India, the Vedic civilisation arises after the collapse of the earlier Indus Valley Civilisation. Indo-Aryan peoples migrate into north-western India and start to inhabit the northern Indus Valley. The Vedic civilisation is initially a tribal, pastoral society centred in the north-western parts of the Indian subcontinent; it spreads after 1100 BCE to the Ganges Plain.

A NOTE ON CHRONOLOGY

The first completely reliable date in history is 763 BCE. In the tenth year of Ashur Dan III a solar eclipse was observed and recorded. Modern astronomers can calculate the date of this eclipse to 763 BCE. For events after this date the evidence from Assyria and Babylon can be cross-referenced with Greek historians to provide precise dating. Before this event, it is not possible to date events precisely.

These lists and history notes generally follow traditional chronology. An alternative chronology of the ancient Near East was developed by English Egyptologist David Rohl and other researchers. It is best known from the book “A Test of Time” published in 1995. Problems with the chronology in the Egyptian Third Intermediate Period led to the proposal to bring forward conventional dating of earlier periods by up to 350 years.

The new chronology is not widely accepted in academic circles. It introduces as many problems as it solves. It does highlight that the traditional chronology contains issues, particularly during the Third Intermediate Period. It is also likely that the “Dark Ages” period between 1100 and 800 BCE may be shorter than the traditional chronology might suggest.

MAXIMUS ARMY LISTS

CALCULATING POINTS

Army points are calculated as follows:

GENERALS - MAXIMUS

Type of general	Army Commander		Sub-general		Ally general
	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive
Legendary	1600	1400	n/a	n/a	800	700
Talented	1100	900	850	700	650	600
Competent	700	550	600	450	300	250
Mediocre	250	0	400	250	100	50

CAMPS

Type of camp	Poor	Average	Superior
Unfortified	108	180	252
Fortified	216	360	504
Flexible	180	300	420
Mobile	126	210	294
No camp	378	N/A	N/A

A flexible camp is deployed as a fortified camp when defending and a mobile camp when invading.
No camp deploys a poor mobile camp when defending and no camp at all when invading.

UGs

For each UG multiply the cost shown in the list (adjusting for any optional characteristics) by the number of bases.

NOTES

1. Points values for skirmishers in Magna and Pacto are greater than in Maximus as SuGs shoot at full effect with only two ranks.
2. For further details on how points are calculated visit the Mortem et Gloriam website.

HITTITE OLD AND MIDDLE KINGDOM

1680 TO 1380 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The founding of the Hittite Kingdom is attributed to either Labarna I or Hattusili I who conquered the area south and north of Hattusa. Hattusili I campaigned as far as the Semitic Amorite kingdom of Yamkhad in Syria. His heir, Mursili I, conquered Yamhhad and, bypassing Assyria, captured Mari and Babylonia. Internal dissension caused the Hittites to withdraw and weakened the Old Kingdom. This weakness extended into the Middle Kingdom (from c. 1500 BCE). During this period the Hittites were under constant attack, particularly from the Gasgans to their north.

TROOP NOTES

The Hittite army appears to have kept a core of permanent troops whilst others were called up during the campaigning season if required. Records imply that at this time most spearmen had light shields.

HYKSOS

1645 TO 1535 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Hyksos "rulers of foreign lands" is used to designate the kings of the Fifteenth Dynasty. Manetho, a historian in the 3rd century BCE portrays them as invaders, possibly Amorites from Syria or Canaan. A Sheshy or Salatis became Pharaoh, set up a new capital and introduced a new religion. The kingdom was established in the eastern Nile Delta with a capital at Avaris. Under Khyan the kingdom extended as far south as Thebes. Hostilities between the Hyksos and the Seventeenth Dynasty led to the overthrow of the Hyksos and the establishment of the Egyptian New Kingdom.

TROOP NOTES

The Hyksos take over appears to have occurred before the introduction of massed chariotry.

LUWIAN KINGDOMS

1630 TO 1180 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list represents the kingdoms of Western Anatolia before they were overrun by the Sea Peoples. The Kingdom of Arzawa is believed to have had its capital at Apasa, which later became Ephesus. The kingdom was subjugated by Mursili II around 1300 BCE. The rulers were in correspondence with the Ahhiyawa (Myceneans) and Egyptians. Other entities include Karkiya (later Caria), Lukka (later Lycia) and Masa (possibly Mysia). Seha, sometimes referred to as Seha River Land was probably the river Hermos, with a settlement at Sardis.

The Assuwa Confederation consisted of 22 states formed to oppose the Hittites but was defeated by Tudhaliya. The name was recorded in Mycenaean Greece as Asiwia, which later acquired the form Asia. Wilusa was a member of the confederation in the north-west with Taruisa generally believed to be Troy.

TROOP NOTES

During their war against the Hittites under Mursili II, the Arzawa may have been assisted from nearby Miletus which was controlled by the Mycenaean. The Mycenaean also may have supported the Assuwa Confederation against the Hittites.

MINOAN AND EARLY MYCENAEAN

1600 TO 1251 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Minoan culture developed on the island of Crete and other Aegean islands. Crete was vulnerable due to earthquakes and the devastating volcanic eruption on Thera (probably 17th century BCE) which caused a tsunami along the north coast of Crete. From around 1600 BCE to 1400 BCE Late Minoan civilisation flourished and influenced the Mycenaean culture on mainland Greece.

From the early 14th century BCE, Mycenaean began to take advantage of the new trading opportunities in the Mediterranean after the Minoan collapse. Mycenaean settled at Miletus and their presence in Asia Minor is attested in Hittite records. The Mycenaean civilisation suffered a wave of severe destruction around 1250 BCE.

TROOP NOTES

The Minoans did not include military scenes in their art and Minoan script has not been translated. As a result, knowledge of Minoan warfare is limited and derived mostly from archaeological finds.

Charioteers were either equipped in Dendra panoply armed with long spear, or in lighter quilted armour with spears and javelins. Spearmen typically carried the tower or figure-of-eight shield and held their spears two handed. They fought in close formation, sometimes supported by archers in and/or behind the ranks.

MITANNI

1595 TO 1250 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The kingdom of Mitanni was founded by a Hurrian dynasty. The first ruler was a legendary king called Kirta. Mitanni gradually grew from the region around the Khabur valley and was perhaps the most powerful kingdom of the Near East between 1475 and 1365 BCE, after which it was eclipsed and eventually destroyed by the Middle Assyrian Empire.

TROOP NOTES

The strength of the Mitanni army lay in its chariot-borne military aristocracy, the maryannu, a heavily armoured bowman riding in a swift armoured chariot. Aweluti qashati were picked archers. Shuktiuhulu were archers who also carried a spear and were accompanied by an attendant.

KASSITE BABYLONIAN

1595 TO 1150 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Kassites arrived in Babylonia from Iran as the Amorite old Babylonian kingdom fell into decline. After the Hittites under Mursilis I sacked Babylon, a Kassite dynasty took over control. At this time southern Babylonia was the independent country of “Sealand”, but this was reconquered by 1460 BCE and Karduniash (as Kassite Babylon was called) became recognised as a major power. Its military campaigns were mainly against Sutu nomads, the Elamites and Assyria. It was weakened by an unsuccessful invasion of Assyria under Kashtiliash IV and the dynasty fell when Babylon was sacked by the Elamites in 1157 BCE.

TROOP NOTES

The Kassites used similar chariots to their neighbours. Infantry were similar to earlier infantry.

RULERS

Regnal dates for the early Kassite (Dynasty III) kings are uncertain. They included Burnaburiash, Utamburiash, Kashtiliash III, Agum III, Karaindash, Kadashman-Harbe I and Kurigalzu I. The regnal dates for later kings are:

SYRO-CANAANITE

HISTORICAL NOTES

After the fall of some of the Amorite dynasties to the Hittites, the city-states of Canaan (modern Israel, Palestine, and Jordan) and Syria were occupied by possibly Hurrian rulers due to the resulting power vacuums. These city-states were usually vassals of either Mitanni, Egypt, the Hittite Empire or Assyria.

TROOP NOTES

The Hurrians brought chariot-riding maryannu to the armies of the Canaanite and Syrian cities.

NEW KINGDOM EGYPTIAN

HISTORICAL NOTES

The New Kingdom of Egypt is the period in ancient Egyptian history between the 16th and the 11th century BCE, covering the Eighteenth, Nineteenth, and Twentieth Dynasties of Egypt. Thutmose III expanded Egypt's army and wielded it with great success to consolidate the empire created by his predecessors. This resulted in a peak in Egypt's power and wealth during the reign of Amenhotep III. Towards the end of the 18th Dynasty, the situation changed. The Hittites had gradually extended their influence into Phoenicia and Canaan to become a major power in international politics.

Both Seti I and his son Ramesses II of the Nineteenth Dynasty confronted the Hittites.

The last "great" pharaoh from the New Kingdom is widely considered to be Ramesses III, a Twentieth Dynasty pharaoh who reigned several decades after Ramesses II. He defeated the Sea Peoples who had invaded Egypt. After his death the Dynasty declined, and this led to the Third Intermediate Period.

TROOP NOTES

New Kingdom Egyptian armies added massed chariotry to the already sophisticated infantry tactics of the Middle Kingdom. Egyptian armies still retained a higher ratio of infantry to chariots (250 infantry to each chariot at Kadesh) than their Mitanni and Hittite opponents (100 infantry to each chariot at Kadesh).

Early New Kingdom close fighters are often depicted running with axe in right hand, spear in left, and smallish shield slung behind shoulder. In other pictures they are shown advancing at the walk with overlapping shields, although still carrying their spear in the left hand. Later New Kingdom close fighters have bigger shields, wear body armour, and are sometimes depicted thrusting their spears with both hands.

In the eight year of Ramesses III (1178 BCE) defeated the Sea Peoples with chariots, Sherden, and light troops.

HITTITE EMPIRE

1400 TO 1180 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

In around 1400 BCE, King Tudhaliya I, allied with Kizzuwatna, to defeat the Hurrian states of Aleppo and Mitanni, and expanded to the west at the expense of Arzawa (a Luwian state). The Hittite Empire reached its height during the mid-14th century BCE under Suppiluliuma I, when it encompassed an area that included most of Anatolia as well as parts of the northern Levant and Upper Mesopotamia. At the Battle of Qadesh, traditionally dated to 1274 BCE Muwatalli II defeated the Egyptians. It may have been one of the largest chariot battles ever fought. The battle left the Hittites in control in northern Syria. The empire was crippled by the "Sea Peoples" invasion and then finished off by their old Gasgan enemies.

TROOP NOTES

Hittite infantry were armed with short spears and daggers. Many, but not all, infantry carried shields. Standing army troops appear to have been called UKU.US, and could include non-Hittites such as pacified Kaska (Gasgans) which attested from at least Hattusili III.

Troops levied for individual campaigns were called ERIN.MES NARARI - the infantry could include bowmen and some levies were chariotry. There were also "provincial troops" raised from the fringes of the empire through agreements with border districts to provide bodies of soldiers. These would not be split up but would fight together. They may have been known as LIM SERI. They could serve seasonally, or some were used as garrison troops. From the early c14th BCE these included Kaska (they are mentioned by the Egyptians as being at Qadesh). It is likely these provincial troops served in their native style.

Hittite chariots fought in the same style as Egyptian and Mitanni counterparts. The role of the 3rd man shown on Egyptian reliefs is unclear. The chariotry were called ERIN.MES GIGIR. The king's bodyguard chariotry were called SUS KU.SIG "golden chariot fighters". Other troops called ERIN.MES.LUGAL may also have fought around the king, although it may just be a general term for "king's soldiers".

Hittite chariots with a driver and 2 crew are clearly shown on the Egyptian reliefs of Kadesh. This appears to have been a specific Hittite tactic at Kadesh to carry a third crew member to attack the Egyptian camp. Chariots were carefully balanced and if the additional crew member was intended to fight in the chariot, then the location of the axle would need to change. There is no evidence for such a change on the Egyptian reliefs.

MESEDI were the king's foot bodyguard. There were further troops associated with them, LU.MES.SUKUR DUGUD, LU.MES SUKUR ZABAR and LU.MES SUKUR, all of whom were spearmen. Despite the four different types there don't appear to have been huge numbers of them.

Light troops were known as ERIN.MES SUTE.

There were also contingent from subject states who were required to provide troops to the Hittite army by treaty, some of which may have been permanently employed.

MIDDLE ASSYRIAN

1365 TO 884 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Up until the time of Ashur-uballit I (1365 to 1330 BCE) the Assyrian state was relatively weak and probably a vassal of the Mitanni. As the Mitanni came under pressure from the Hittites the Assyrians seized territory. Kassite influence was decisively ended by Ninurta I (1244 to 1208 BCE). Tiglath-Pilaser I (1115 to 1007 BCE) led Assyrian armies across the Euphrates and as far as the Mediterranean but Aramean incursions pushed Assyria back on the defensive. Assyria had recovered as a military power by the time of Ashurnasirpal II (884 to 859 BCE).

TROOP NOTES

The military organisation of Assyria probably developed from the Mitanni system. Asharittu were better trained and equipped troops. Hupshu were peasant conscripts. Infantry comprised spearmen and archers.

LATER MYCENAEAN

1250 TO 1180 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the later period of Mycenaean Greece. A specific list has been created reflecting Homer’s account of the Trojan War. Mycenaean Greece included numerous fortified cities or palaces that included Mycenae, Thebes, Athens, and Pylos. The Hittites refer to a king of Ahhiyawa (which may be Achaea) which suggests a leading state ruling over the other cities.

TROOP NOTES

Chariot tactics appear to have changed considerably from the earlier period with chariot crew being equipped with short spears and javelins. Infantry depicted on vases and in frescoes are shown having a single spear and an almost round shield. Swords are not always shown.

EARLY ISRAELITE

1250 TO 1020 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

A people named Israel appear for the first time in the Merneptah Stele, an ancient Egyptian inscription which dates to about 1200 BCE. They were a confederation of Semitic-speaking tribes inhabiting a part of Canaan. A tribal period was followed by the rise of two Israelite kingdoms: Israel and Judah.

TROOP NOTES

There are very few images of Hebrew infantry of this period. Equipment appears to have been a mix of Canaanite and Philistine equipment.

SCENARIO RULE - NOT FOR TOURNAMENT PLAY

The Ark of the Covenant defended by Levites may be represented by a mobile superior camp in addition to the normal camp. The Ark may be 1BW by 2BW and the normal rules for a mobile camp apply for movement and fighting. If sacked, treat as for a sacked camp but roll one dice higher than normal for the KaB tests. During the End of Turn phase, a single UG may recover a wound, without requiring a card, if the Ark is within 10 BW and hasn't been sacked. The usual restrictions for camp deployment do not apply to the Ark but it must be deployed in the player's deployment area.

CHANGES FROM LAST VERSION

Adjusted end date to reign of Saul.

SEA PEOPLES

1230 TO 1101 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Sea Peoples were a confederation of groups known to have attacked ancient Egypt prior to the Late Bronze Age collapse. The origin of the various groups remains the source of much speculation. The groups include Denyen, Ekwesh, Lukka, Peleset, Shekelesh, Sherden, Teresh, Tjeker and Weshesh. Inscriptions imply they brought about the collapse of the Hittites and the destruction of some Syrian and Canaanite cities including Ugarit, Ashkelon and Hazor. These were migratory invasions involving movements of populations by land and sea. Ramesses III defeated two invasions and appears to have settled the survivors in Canaan. The Peleset were originally from Mycenaean Greece and became the Philistines.

TROOP NOTES

The troops were mostly infantry although a few chariots do appear to have been used. Some troops were equipped with leather helmets. Some body armour was used, probably by only the wealthiest warriors. Round shields were carried, but unshielded warriors are also depicted. Weapons included javelins, spears, and swords.

EARLY VEDIC INDIAN

1200 TO 901 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

After the collapse of the Indus Valley Civilisation, which ended c. 1900 BCE groups of Indo-Aryan peoples migrated into north-western India and started to inhabit the northern Indus Valley. The Vedic civilisation was initially a tribal, pastoral society centred in the north-western parts of the Indian subcontinent; it spread after 1100 BCE to the Ganges Plain. Internecine military conflicts between the various tribes of Vedic Aryans are described in the Rig Veda. The Kurus were a leading tribal union at this time.

TROOP NOTES

The texts of the time describe the deeds of charioteers with bows and wielding massive clubs. The majority of infantry were probably archers. Dhanurveda was “bow knowledge”. It is contained within the second text, Yajurveda.

HISTORICAL ENEMIES

Elamite 1107; Early Vedic Indian 1215.

TRIBES AND KINGDOMS

Tribes and kingdoms mentioned in Vedic texts include Gandhara., Kekaya, Madra, Trigarta, Kuru, Matsya, Pancala, Kunti, Vidarbha, Kosala, Kasi, Pulinda, Mutiba, Videha, Kikata, Anga, Pundra, Vanga, and Kalinga.

TROJAN WAR - ACHAEAN

1193 TO 1183 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The semi-legendary Trojan war described in Homer's "Iliad" may have been based on a conflict on the west coast of Asia Minor. Hittite records indicate the Achaeans may have invaded the west coast of Anatolia on an earlier occasion.

Greek heroes include Agamemnon, Achilles, Menelaus, Odysseus, Diomedes, Telamonian Ajax, Lesser Ajax and Idomeneus.

TROOP NOTES

This list is based upon the Later Mycenaean list. The Pylians are taken to use tactics from earlier times.

The wooden horse is taken to be some sort of siege engine.

TROJAN WAR - TROJAN

1193 TO 1183 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Troy and Ilium is taken to be the Wilusha of Hittite records. It was within the sphere of Hittite influence and during the reign of Tudhaliya IV a Hittite contingent was sent to aid it against a ruler of the Ahhiyawa who may have been the Achaeans.

Trojan heroes include Hector, Paris, Aeneas, Penthesilla (an Amazon), Sarpedon, Palamedes and Achates.

TROOP NOTES

It is believed that western Anatolia was influenced by Mycenaean tactics at this time.
