CREATING AN ARMY WITH THE MORTEM ET GLORIAM ARMY LISTS

Use the army lists to create your own customised armies using the Mortem et Gloriam Army Builder.

There are few general rules to follow:

1. An army must have at least 2 generals and can have no more than 4.
2. You must take at least the minimum of any troops noted and may not go beyond the maximum of any.
3. No army may have more than two generals who are Talented or better.
4. Unless specified otherwise, all elements in a UG must be classified identically. Unless specified otherwise, if an optional characteristic is taken, it must be taken by all the elements in the UG for which that optional characteristic is available.
5. Any UGs can be downgraded by one quality grade and/or by one shooting skill (Skilled to Experienced or Experienced to Unskilled) representing less strong, tired, or understrength troops. If any bases are downgraded all in the UG must be downgraded. So Average-Experienced skirmishers can always be downgraded to Poor-Unskilled.
6. Points are shown for troops with all mandatory characteristics applied. Points have been rounded to the nearest whole number. If quality or shooting skill is downgraded, then the points (including the points for any optional characteristics) will need to be adjusted.
7. An army entirely of Cavalry, Chariots, Camelry or Infantry with the Dismountable characteristic may choose the No Camp option.

Where allies are allowed, they must conform to the following rules:

1. An ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list being used.
3. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.
4. Unless specified in the notes, the general must be the same type as the army commander in their own army's list but cannot be legendary.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

Where an internal ally is allowed, and no contingent is specified they must conform to the following rules:

1. Each internal ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. The total number of troops taken of each type in the entire army must not exceed the maxima for that troop type.
3. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list if there is enough allowance for a UG after the core army itself has taken the minimum. For example: An army has 4-12 cavalry (UG size 4,6) and 18-32 spearmen (UG size 6,8,9) as compulsory troops with 2 internal allies. The core army must take 4 cavalry and at least 18 spearmen. The first ally must take 4 cavalry and at least 9 spearmen. The second ally must take 4 cavalry but cannot take the 9 spearmen as this would exceed the 32 spearmen limit for the army.

4. If a list requires a proportion of a troop type to be upgraded or regraded, then the army as a whole must comply with this requirement. Internal allies do not have to comply these requirements. For example: $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of Turcomans must be upgraded from Experienced to Skilled shooting. An internal ally might have all Experienced as long as the army as a whole has $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ Skilled.
5. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

As a courtesy to your opponent when you deploy your troops, you should describe each UG fully; type, training, quality, protection, melee weaponry, shooting skill and weaponry and characteristics. You should also explain how any unusual troop types in your army function and any special rules including Stakes, Caltrops, Barricades and Obstacles and troop types such as Battle Wagons.

The easiest way to calculate points is to use the downloadable on-line army builder at www.mortem-et-gloriam.co.uk. Use this and all you do is use drop downs for the troop classifications and it does all the work for you. For those who prefer pen and paper, or who want to doodle some approximate designs before loading an army up, we have provided the points values with the lists. If a discrepancy exists in the points values between these lists and the army builder, then the army builder has the correct value.

FRIENDLY AND SCENARIO GAMES

Feel free to vary the troop classifications for friendly and scenario games. An interesting aspect of scenario games can be to see what the effect is from representing troops in a different manner.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION

The 12th century BCE saw the collapse of the Mycenaean and Hittite civilisations and the decline of Egypt. The Mycenaean world entered a dark age. The Greek world was disrupted by an internal migration, the Dorian movement. The Dorians were illiterate Greeks who migrated as far south as Crete and Rhodes. The Hittite empire was replaced by Phrygians and Luvians (Carians and Lycians) in Anatolia. Most of the successors of Ramesses III were a lacklustre lot and the Egyptian empire began to become unstitched in the reign of Ramesses XI (1103 to 1070 BCE). The Kushites broke away around 1080 BCE.

Assyria however was doing rather well. Under the reign of Tiglath-Pileser I it reached the Mediterranean in the west and conquered Babylon. This success was only temporary, and it was overrun by the Aramean tribes. Soon the Assyrians occupied little more than their own heartland. The Aramean, Phrygian and Luvian states are referred to as Syro-Hittite.

Palestine now enters recorded history. The Philistines had originated as Sea Peoples, possibly settled by the Egyptians. They elbowed aside the native Canaanites and occupied the interior as far as the Jordan. The Hebrew tribes that occupied the highlands eventually established their own independent kingdom and were able to establish a capital on the former Canaanite settlement of Jerusalem. After David and Solomon two kingdoms emerged, Judah that occupied Jerusalem and its environs and Israel.

Egypt during this period had been unable to stop large numbers of Libyan tribesmen from settling in the Delta and Nile valley. The two main tribes were the Meshwesh and the Libu. In around 945 BCE an Egyptian of Libyan descent established himself as Pharaoh and a new era referred to as Libyan Egyptian started.

A NOTE ON CHRONOLOGY

The first completely reliable date in history is 763 BCE. In the tenth year of Ashur Dan III a solar eclipse was observed and recorded. Modern astronomers can calculate the date of this eclipse to 763 BCE. For events after this date the evidence from Assyria and Babylon can be cross-referenced with Greek historians to provide precise dating. Before this event, it is not possible to date events precisely.

These lists and history notes generally follow traditional chronology. An alternative chronology of the ancient Near East was developed by English Egyptologist David Rohl and other researchers. It is best known from the book “A Test of Time” published in 1995. Problems with the chronology in the Egyptian Third Intermediate Period led to the proposal to bring forward conventional dating of earlier periods by up to 350 years.

The new chronology is not widely accepted in academic circles. It introduces as many problems as it solves. It does highlight that the traditional chronology contains issues, particularly during the Third Intermediate Period. It is also likely that the “Dark Ages” period between 1100 and 800 BCE may be shorter than the traditional chronology might suggest.

MAXIMUS ARMY LISTS

CALCULATING POINTS

Army points are calculated as follows:

GENERALS - MAXIMUS

Type of general	Army Commander		Sub-general		Ally general
	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive
Legendary	1600	1400	n/a	n/a	800	700
Talented	1100	900	850	700	650	600
Competent	700	550	600	450	300	250
Mediocre	250	0	400	250	100	50

CAMPS

Type of camp	Poor	Average	Superior
Unfortified	108	180	252
Fortified	216	360	504
Flexible	180	300	420
Mobile	126	210	294
No camp	378	N/A	N/A

A flexible camp is deployed as a fortified camp when defending and a mobile camp when invading.
No camp deploys a poor mobile camp when defending and no camp at all when invading.

UGs

For each UG multiply the cost shown in the list (adjusting for any optional characteristics) by the number of bases.

NOTES

1. Points values for skirmishers in Magna and Pacto are greater than in Maximus as SuGs shoot at full effect with only two ranks.
2. For further details on how points are calculated visit the Mortem et Gloriam website.

2ND DYNASTY OF ISIN

1157 TO 1026 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

A native dynasty with Kassite support expelled the Kassite rulers from Babylon in around 1150 BCE. Babylon regained its position under the 2nd Dynasty of Isin when Nebuchadrezzar I won a major victory over the Elamites and recaptured the sacred statue of Marduk that the Elamites had carried off after the sack, but he fared less well against the Assyrians. The Babylonians then fought Kassites, Assyrians, Chaldeans, and Elamites to maintain their independence.

TROOP NOTES

Little is known about Babylonian armies of this era.

SYRO-HITTITE

1100 TO 901 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Luwian, Aramaic and Phoenician speaking states that arose following the collapse of the Hittite Empire are referred to as Syro-Hittite. The Syro-Hittite states may be divided into two groups: a northern group where Hittite rulers remained in power, and a southern group where Aramaeans came to rule from about 1000 BCE. These states were highly decentralised. The name Quwe may equate to Ahhiyawa, the Hittite designation for Mycenaean Greece. These may have been a group of Mycenaean Greek Sea Peoples who settled in Cilicia.

TROOP NOTES

Chariots like the earlier period were used. The majority of Syro-Hittite infantry appear to have been lightly equipped.

PHILISTINE

1100 TO 710 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Philistines are known primarily for their conflict with the Israelites described in the Bible. They appear to have originated as the Peleset, a tribe of Sea Peoples who may have originated in the Aegean.

TROOP NOTES

The Philistines may have been established as garrison troops in Canaan by Ramesses III. They gradually adopted Canaanite methods of warfare including the chariot. Infantry were equipped with shield, helmet, and thrusting spear. Kharu was a region in Syria, renowned for archery.

DARK AGE GREEK

1100 TO 671 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Greek dark ages or Geometric period (after the characteristic art) extended from around 1100 BCE to the first evidence of the Greek city states in the 9th century BCE. By 1050 BCE all traces of Mycenaean civilization disappear. During the 10th century the Greeks appear to have moved into sites on the Anatolian coast including Miletus and Ephesus. By the 9th century they appear in Cyprus and at least one colony was established in Syria at Al Mina.

The Archaic period which followed the Greek Dark Ages saw a massive increase in population and the establishment of the distinctive polis, the Greek city state.

TROOP NOTES

Chariots appear in Geometric period art, but warriors appear to have usually dismounted to fight.

Foot are depicted as fighting with sword and or javelins. Both chariot warriors and foot carried large but flimsy "dipylon" shields. Other foot included unshielded warriors with bows or javelins some of whom might have fought amongst the close fighters. The transition to hoplites appears to have started in the early 7th century where troops with hoplite shield, spear and javelins are shown alongside troops with dipylon shields.

ISRAELITE

1020 TO 801 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Before 1000 BCE the zone of foothills behind the coastal plain of the southern Levant was relatively unpopulated. Favourable climatic conditions resulted in the unification of the biblical kingdom of Israel. Jerusalem appears to have been a Canaanite city state recognising Egyptian overlordship. The collapse of Egyptian control in the area led to the growth of Israel, the Hebrew language emerging as a dialect of Canaanite. A united monarchy appeared under Saul, David, and Solomon. The death of Solomon led to the split into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah.

TROOP NOTES

Chariots initially appear to have been captured or imported from Egypt.

PHOENICIAN

1000 TO 332 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Phoenicia is a classical Greek term for the major Canaanite port towns. They were organised into city-states, most notable of which were Tyre, Sidon, Anrad and Berytus. Culturally they were like other Canaanites. The Phoenicians also had a significant influence in Cyprus. They traded extensively across the Mediterranean, silver hoards dated before 800 BCE include silver originating in Sardinia and Spain.

The Persians conquered Phoenicia in 539 BCE. They prospered by providing fleets for Persian kings. A rebellion in Sidon in 350 or 349 BCE was crushed by Artaxerxes III. Phoenician culture disappeared in the Hellenistic period but flourished in Carthage until destroyed by the Romans in 146 BCE.

TROOP NOTES

Phoenician troops were identical to Canaanite troops. Influenced by Assyria, at least some Phoenicians crewed 4-horse chariots with 3 crew, 2 armed with thrusting spears. From the seventh century BCE the Phoenicians were increasingly influenced by the Greek style of warfare.

HIGHLAND STATES

950 TO 610 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Mannaians lived in northwest Iran and were neighbours to the Urartian and Assyrian empires. The kingdom began to flourish around 850 BCE. Around 800 BCE they came into conflict with Urartu. Between 750 to 730 BCE the Mannaians expanded as Urartu and Assyria were engaged in conflict. In 716 BCE king Sargon II of Assyria seized the capital Izirtu. In 705 BCE the Cimmerians killed Sargon II and migrated to the east and west of Mannae. In 676 BCE the Mannaians revolted against Esarhaddon of Assyria. The Medes conquered the remnants of Mannai in 616 BCE.

This list also includes other Highland states in the Taurus and Zagros mountains including Kumme, Zamua, Nairi, Musasir and Subria

TROOP NOTES

Mannaians used chariots, cavalry, and infantry. Chariots had two crew, an archer and driver. Cavalry were equipped with spears but may have adopted the bow under the influence of their neighbours and the Cimmerians. Infantry used spears, shields, and side arms. Archers are also depicted.

LIBYAN EGYPTIAN

945 TO 720 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Twenty-second dynasty of Egypt was founded by Shoshenq I in 945 BCE. He was descended from Meshwesh immigrants, Libyans that had been settled in the Nile delta. This brought stability to the country. In around 830 BCE Shoshenq III lost control of Middle and Upper Egypt and henceforth the dynasty only controlled Lower Egypt. The Twenty-third dynasty controlled Upper and Middle Egypt, but this kingdom quickly fragmented into local city states. The kingdoms fell to the Kushites in 732 BCE who had reunited the entire country by 720 BCE.

TROOP NOTES

During the Third Intermediary Period the Egyptians came to rely less on native troops and more on settled immigrants, the Meshwesh and the Libu. These Libyans were to form a national militia in the Saitic period. Egyptian infantry used round shields and two light spears. Other troops are represented with helmets, a single spear, and a short sword.

LATER SYRO-HITTITE

900 TO 700 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the Aramaean and Neo-Hittite successor kingdoms of Syria and Cilicia. These states fell to the onslaught of Assyria and Urartu.

TROOP NOTES

During the ninth and eighth centuries BCE 3 and 4 crew chariots were introduced, probably drawn by 4 horses. 2 crew chariots also seem to have been used. Cavalry equipped with spears and mounted archers were used. Camelry were adopted by some states. Infantry used round shields and spears. Archers were also used.

In 853 BCE an alliance of eleven kings led by Hardadezer (possibly Benhadad II of Aram-Damascus) faced the Assyrian King Shalmaneser III at the Battle of Qarqar. According to the Assyrian inscription the alliance fielded at least 3,910 chariots, 1,900 horsemen, 1,000 camelry and 52,000 foot soldiers. These numbers are almost certainly exaggerated, the Assyrian king claimed he had 14,000 troops.

CHALDEAN BABYLONIAN

900 TO 627 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Adad-nirani II of Assyria twice attacked and defeated Shamash-mudaamiq of Babylon. For nearly 300 years Babylon was dominated by the Assyrians. The Assyrians forced Babylon into vassalage. On occasion Assyrian kings ruled Babylon directly. In 780 BCE Babylon was seized by the Chaldeans, but the Babylonian king Nabonaasar overthrew the Chaldean usurpers in 748 BCE. With the accession of Tiglath-Pilaser III Babylon came under renewed attack, sacked, and reduced to vassalage. In 729 BCE Babylon was ruled directly. In 721 BCE the Babylonians revolted under a Chaldean leader with Elamite support. Sennacherib sacked Babylon after it was seized by an Elamite king. A puppet king was overthrown with Elamite support forcing the Assyrian king Esarhaddon to rule Babylon personally. Brutal Assyrian civil wars led to the Babylonian ruler Nabopolassar founding the Neo-Babylonian empire.

TROOP NOTES

Babylonian troops were influenced by Assyria but mostly consisted of Aramean and Chaldean troops.

LATER VEDIC INDIAN

900 TO 530 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Kuru kingdom declined after its defeat by the non-Vedic Salva tribe. The political centre of Vedic culture shifted east, into the Panchala kingdom on the Ganges. By 600 BCE the Videha kingdom became one of the major political and cultural centres. Towards the end of the Vedic period Videha appears to have been part of the Vriji confederation and absorbed in the Magadha empire.

TROOP NOTES

Vedic troops don't appear to have changed greatly from earlier periods. Elephants were used to link the mounted troops on the flanks to the infantry in the centre. Dhanurveda was “bow knowledge”. It is contained within the second text, Yajurveda.

HISTORICAL ENEMIES

Later Vedic Indian 1312; Early Scythian or Saka 2101; Achaemenid Persian - Royal Army 2601.

VEDIC KINGDOMS AND TRIBES

Tribes mentioned in Vedic texts include Gandhara., Kekaya, Madra, Trigarta, Salva, Kuru, Matsya, Pancala, Kunti, Vidarbha, Kosala, Kasi, Pulinda, Mutiba, Videha, Licchava, Maghada, Avanti, Anga, Pundra, Vanga, Kalinga and Andhra.

LATER ELAMITE

890 TO 539 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

During this period Elam was generally allied with Babylon and helped to resist Assyrian influence. The Elamites were defeated by Sargon II and later by his son Sennacherib. Elamite attacks on Assyria and Babylon were defeated and civil war further weakened the kingdom. In 640 BCE the Assyrian Ashurbanipal captured Elam and annexed the country. Elam remained fragmented among different small kingdoms until captured by the Medes by 587 BCE.

TROOP NOTES

Elam continued to rely on its archery. Kallapani were troops on fast carts, each cart carrying several archers to support true chariots or cavalry. Chariots were pulled by mule-type horses. Cavalry were unarmoured, carrying a bow, spear, and sword. Ashurbanipal records that in defeating the Elamites he carried off men of the bow and the shield. The Persians may have acquired the concept of Sparabara from the Elamites.

EARLY NEO-ASSYRIAN EMPIRE

883 TO 745 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

After the death of Tiglath-Pileser I in 1076 BCE, Assyria was in comparative decline for the next 150 years. Beginning with the campaigns of Adad-nirari II, Assyria again became a great power. The next king, Ashurnasirpal II (883 to 859 BCE), embarked on a vast program of expansion. Ashurnasirpal II introduced a policy of mass deportation of conquered people which was followed by his successors. Ashurnasirpal's son, Shalmaneser III ruled for 35 years. He fought against Urartu and then marched an army against an alliance of Aramean states headed by Hadadezer of Damascus and including Ahab, king of Israel, at the Battle of Qarqar in 853 BCE. Shalmaneser took the neo-Hittite state of Carchemish in 849 BCE, and in 842 BCE, marched an army against Hazael, King of Damascus, besieging the city and forcing tribute, but not taking it. In 841 BCE, he also brought under tribute Jehu of Israel, and the Phoenician states of Tyre, and Sidon. The last four years of Shalmaneser's life were disturbed by the rebellion of his eldest son Ashur-nadin-aplu. This was quashed with difficulty by Shamshi-Adad V, Shalmaneser's second son, who succeeded him upon his death in 824 BCE. The long and bitter civil war had allowed the Babylonians to the south, the Medes, Mannaians, the Persians, the Arameans, and the Syro-Hittites in the west to largely shake off Assyrian rule. During this period, Urartu took the opportunity to reassert its influence on the region. Assyrian fortunes were recovered by Adad-nirari III before Assyria entered a period of stagnation before the ascent of Tiglath-Pileser III in 745 BCE.

TROOP NOTES

Assyrian armies of this period were a development from earlier periods. The army consisted of a chariotry provided by a land-owning nobility and some regular elite chariotry of the king. Cavalry developed out of the chariotry and in this period appears to have operated in pairs consisting of a mounted archer and a mounted spearman. Infantry consisted of better trained regular infantry supported by conscripted peasants. Light troops were supplied by conquered regions.

EARLY URARTIAN

860 TO 747 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Urartu was a kingdom centred on Lake Van in the Armenian Highlands. It is mentioned as early as 1274 BCE as one of the states of Nairi, a loose confederation of small kingdoms. It emerges in the mid-ninth century as a powerful rival of Assyria which lay to the south. Urartu expanded whenever Assyria was under weak rulers or fighting civil wars. It reached its greatest extent in the mid-eighth century when it encompassed present-day Armenia and the southern part of present-day Georgia and the sources of both the Euphrates and Tigris.

TROOP NOTES

The Assyrians prized the Urartian horses. Urartian chariots were like Assyrian designs but lighter with only 2 horses and 2 crew. Urartian cavalry were the strength of the army. Infantry were spearmen equipped with round shields and helmets.

VILLANOVAN

860 TO 540 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Villanovan culture preceded the Etruscans in northern Italy.

TROOP NOTES

Villanovan warriors wore helmets and small bronze rectangular pectoral armour. They fought with spears. Shields were either round, made of wooden or wicker with a rawhide facing and may have been decorated with metal studs or similar to the later scutum.

The spearmen were probably supported by javelinmen, archers and slingers.

PROTO-CELTIC

800 TO 400 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list cover Celtic armies of the Hallstatt and Early La Tene cultures. The Celts occupied a wide area of territory across Europe including modern France, Germany and Austria.

TROOP NOTES

Cavalry may have existed but evidence is limited. Chariots may have been used by aristocratic warriors.

Most foot carried shields, spears and javelins. Better equipped warriors would have had some armour and swords. Javelins appear to be the preferred skirmisher weapon. Slingers were used in some areas and some archery existed.

TARTESSIAN

750 TO 550 BCE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Tartessians occupied large areas of South-Western Iberia including the Huelva valley. The Tartessians traded silver with both the Phoenicians and Greeks.

TROOP NOTES

The predominant weapon was a thrusting spear with a broad head. Swords appear to be the weapons of aristocratic warriors. Weapons were mostly bronze with iron weapons only being introduced at the end of this period. The few Greek finds would appear to be either owned by Greeks or presented as gifts to local chieftains. There is no evidence for Greek hoplite tactics.

Bronze arrowheads suitable for warfare have been found in significant numbers.

EARLY IBERIAN

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers Iberian armies before the adoption of cavalry. The Iberians faced invasions from Celtic tribes to the north and the merger of Iberian and Celtic tribes led to the development of Celtiberian culture. The Iberians appear to have overcome the Tartessians, supplanting Tartessian culture

TROOP NOTES

Iberians appear to have used a combination of spear and sword combined with the Caetra shield.

There is no direct evidence for cavalry units although horse bits have been found in sufficient numbers to make this feasible.
