CREATING AN ARMY WITH THE MORTEM ET GLORIAM ARMY LISTS

Use the army lists to create your own customised armies using the Mortem et Gloriam Army Builder.

There are few general rules to follow:

1. An army must have at least 2 generals and can have no more than 4.
2. You must take at least the minimum of any troops noted and may not go beyond the maximum of any.
3. No army may have more than two generals who are Talented or better.
4. Unless specified otherwise, all elements in a UG must be classified identically. Unless specified otherwise, if an optional characteristic is taken, it must be taken by all the elements in the UG for which that optional characteristic is available.
5. Any UGs can be downgraded by one quality grade and/or by one shooting skill (Skilled to Experienced or Experienced to Unskilled) representing less strong, tired, or understrength troops. If any bases are downgraded all in the UG must be downgraded. So Average-Experienced skirmishers can always be downgraded to Poor-Unskilled.
6. Points are shown for troops with all mandatory characteristics applied. Points have been rounded to the nearest whole number. If quality or shooting skill is downgraded, then the points (including the points for any optional characteristics) will need to be adjusted.
7. An army entirely of Cavalry, Chariots, Camelry or Infantry with the Dismountable characteristic may choose the No Camp option.

Where allies are allowed, they must conform to the following rules:

1. An ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list being used.
3. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.
4. Unless specified in the notes, the general must be the same type as the army commander in their own army's list but cannot be legendary.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

Where an internal ally is allowed, and no contingent is specified they must conform to the following rules:

1. Each internal ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. The total number of troops taken of each type in the entire army must not exceed the maxima for that troop type.
3. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list if there is enough allowance for a UG after the core army itself has taken the minimum. For example: An army has 4-12 cavalry (UG size 4,6) and 18-32 spearmen (UG size 6,8,9) as compulsory troops with 2 internal allies. The core army must take 4 cavalry and at least 18 spearmen. The first ally must take 4 cavalry and at least 9 spearmen. The second ally must take 4 cavalry but cannot take the 9 spearmen as this would exceed the 32 spearmen limit for the army.

4. If a list requires a proportion of a troop type to be upgraded or regraded, then the army as a whole must comply with this requirement. Internal allies do not have to comply these requirements. For example: $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of Turcomans must be upgraded from Experienced to Skilled shooting. An internal ally might have all Experienced as long as the army as a whole has $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ Skilled.
5. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

As a courtesy to your opponent when you deploy your troops, you should describe each UG fully; type, training, quality, protection, melee weaponry, shooting skill and weaponry and characteristics. You should also explain how any unusual troop types in your army function and any special rules including Stakes, Caltrops, Barricades and Obstacles and troop types such as Battle Wagons.

The easiest way to calculate points is to use the downloadable on-line army builder at www.mortem-et-gloriam.co.uk. Use this and all you do is use drop downs for the troop classifications and it does all the work for you. For those who prefer pen and paper, or who want to doodle some approximate designs before loading an army up, we have provided the points values with the lists. If a discrepancy exists in the points values between these lists and the army builder, then the army builder has the correct value.

FRIENDLY AND SCENARIO GAMES

Feel free to vary the troop classifications for friendly and scenario games. An interesting aspect of scenario games can be to see what the effect is from representing troops in a different manner.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION

Prior to becoming known to the Roman world, slavic-speaking tribes were part of the many multi-ethnic confederacies of the Sarmatian, Hun and Gothic empires. The Slavs settled the lands abandoned by Germanic tribes fleeing the Huns and their allies in the 5th and 6th centuries. The tribes coalesced into early states including Carantania and the Moravian principality.

Eastern Europe was subject to a series of invasions from the Pontic steppe. The Avars emerged in the mid-6th century as a tribe wishing to escape the rule of the Göktürks. Around 568 they settled in what used to be the Roman province of Pannonia by allying with the Lombards against the Gepids. By 600 they had established an empire stretching from modern-day Austria to the Pontic steppe. In 631 the Bulgars threw off Avar rule and established a khanate around the Sea of Azov. They were defeated in 675 by the Khazars who had migrated westwards. The Bulgars fled in two directions. One group moved westwards into the Danube valley establishing the First Bulgarian Empire. This Empire adopted the Slavic language in 864 and was instrumental in the spread of Slavic literacy and Christianity.

The second group of Bulgars moved eastwards up the Volga valley where they survived until they were destroyed by the Mongols. The Khazars dominated the Steppes until they were destroyed by the Rus in 969. The Magyars were subjects of the Khazars who in the 890s migrated into the Carpathian basin (modern Hungary and Romania) and established the state that developed into Hungary. The Magyars were driven into Hungary by the Pechenegs. They controlled much of the steppes of southwestern Eurasia until defeated by the Byzantines in the 12th century.

The Rus were Vikings who traded and raided along the rivers of Russia. In 880 the Kievan Rus state was founded and controlled the trade routes from the Byzantine empire to the Baltic.

MAXIMUS ARMY LISTS

CALCULATING POINTS

Army points are calculated as follows:

GENERALS - MAXIMUS

Type of general	Army Commander		Sub-general		Ally general
	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive
Legendary	1600	1400	n/a	n/a	800	700
Talented	1100	900	850	700	650	600
Competent	700	550	600	450	300	250
Mediocre	250	0	400	250	100	50

CAMPS

Type of camp	Poor	Average	Superior
Unfortified	108	180	252
Fortified	216	360	504
Flexible	180	300	420
Mobile	126	210	294
No camp	378	N/A	N/A

A flexible camp is deployed as a fortified camp when defending and a mobile camp when invading.
No camp deploys a poor mobile camp when defending and no camp at all when invading.

UGs

For each UG multiply the cost shown in the list (adjusting for any optional characteristics) by the number of bases.

NOTES

1. Points values for skirmishers in Magna and Pacto are greater than in Maximus as SuGs shoot at full effect with only two ranks.
2. For further details on how points are calculated visit the Mortem et Gloriam website.

SOUTHERN SLAV

476 TO 896 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

"Southern Slavs" includes the Slavs and Antes that fought the Byzantines and each other, and alternately fought and were dominated by steppe peoples such as the Avars, Magyars, Bulgars and Khazars.

TROOP NOTES

Maurikios describes the Slavs as all living in river-side villages, bordered by forests, swamps and beds of reeds, and being primarily armed with a pair of javelins. Some also had decorative but clumsy oblong "door" shields, and some used bows with short, poisoned arrows. In the open, they would make feint attacks but only charge home if the enemy flinched. They were deadly fighters in woods, but their foot was easily ridden down in the open by cavalry.

EASTERN SLAV

476 TO 985 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

"Eastern Slavs" include those tribes such as the Dregovichians, Drevlians, Dulebians, Ilman Slavs, Krivi-Chians, Polianians, Radimichians, Severians, Tivertsians, Ulichians and Vyatichans that successfully defended their native forests against the Rus until 985.

The Dregovichians were a tribal federation of Slavs living along the Pripiat River and in the more northerly regions of the right bank of the Dnieper. It is known only that in early times they had their own principality whose chief city was Turov.

The Drevlians were a tribe of Slavs between the 6th and the 10th century, which inhabited the territories of Polesia and Right-bank Ukraine, west of the eastern Polans and along the lower reaches of the rivers Teteriv, Uzh, Ubort, and Stviga. To the west, the Drevlians' territories reached the Sluch River. To the north, the Drevlians' neighbors were the Dregovichs. Their name may be rendered "the dwellers in the forest".

TROOP NOTES

The Eastern Slavs were like Southern Slavs.

WENDS

476 TO 1218 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Wends is a historical name for Slavs living near Germanic settlement areas. It does not refer to a homogeneous people, but to various tribes or groups depending on where and when it is used.

When the Wends arrived in Germania Slavica, during the Slavic migrations, they soon divided into a variety of small tribes, with large strips of woodland separating one tribal settlement area from another. Their tribal names were derived from local place names, sometimes adopting the Germanic tradition. Settlements were secured by round burghs made of wood and clay, where either people could retreat in case of a raid from the neighbouring tribe or used as military strongholds or outposts.

Some tribes unified into larger, duchy-like units. For example, the Obotrites evolved from the unification of the Holstein and Western Mecklenburg tribes led by mighty dukes known for their raids into German Saxony. The Lutici were an alliance of tribes living between Obotrites and Pomeranians. They did not unify under a duke but remained independent. Their leaders met in the temple of Rethra.

In 983 CE, many Wend tribes participated in a great uprising against the Holy Roman Empire, which had previously established Christian missions, German colonies, and German ministrative institutions in pagan Wendish territories. The uprising was successful and the Wends delayed Germanisation for about two centuries.

TROOP NOTES

The Wends like other Slavs appear to have been led by chieftains with upper class warriors who constituted his Druzhina. These were supplemented by levies of infantry armed with 2 or 3 javelins and a heavy shield. Archers were trained by the Saxons and shot protected by shield bearers.

BAVARIAN

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Bavarians are first mentioned in the mid-6th century CE, in the foothills north of the Alps, on both sides of the Danube River. They emerge as the Alamanni (to their east) and Thuringii (to their north) come under Frankish control and the Italian Ostrogothic kingdom had come to an end.

TROOP NOTES

It is assumed that the Bavarians fought in a similar style to other Germanic tribes such as the Old Saxons but influenced by the Franks.

AVAR

553 TO 826 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Avars were a confederation of heterogeneous people consisting of Rouran, Hephthalites, and Turkic-Oghuric races who migrated to the region of the Pontic Steppe. As the Gokturk Empire expanded westwards, the Khagan Bayan I led a group of Avars and Bulgars out of their reach, eventually settling around 568 CE in what used to be the Roman province of Pannonia. They conquered the Kutrigur and Utigur remnants of Attila's Huns, the Gepids and many of the Southern Slavs, incorporating them into their army and then used them to lead the attack. After their failed attack on Constantinople in 626, the Avars lost face and were deserted by many of their subjects. The Bulgars revolted in 631, but some became allied again from 675 until eastern Avaria was attacked by Krum's Bulgarian empire in 805.

TROOP NOTES

Maurikios says that unlike other nomads “they concern themselves with military organisation, and this makes them more powerful in pitched battles” and "they prefer battles fought at long range, ambushes, encircling their adversaries, simulated retreats and sudden returns, and wedge-shaped formations". He also says that they wore armour, and most were double armed with lance and bow, the horses of the most important also being frontally armoured. Theophylact Simocatta describes Gepid numbers as a "substantial contingent". The Avars lived in fortified earthworks. Their armies consisted mainly of subject levies with the Avars themselves a minority group.

EARLY BULGAR

559 TO 680 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Bulgars originated as a combination of Utigur and Kutrigur Hunnic remnants with the Sabirs and Onogur. They were conquered by the Avars in 558 CE but cast-off Avar rule in 631 in the aftermath of the failed Avar siege of Constantinople of 626 and formed a new united khanate of Great Bulgaria around the sea of Azov. They were defeated by the Khazars around 675, some moving up the Volga River, the bulk fleeing to the Danube basin where they drove the Avars westward and founded an empire that rivalled the Byzantines.

TROOP NOTES

The Bulgars were probably equipped in a similar fashion to the Avars but using shorter spears rather than the lance.

BOHEMIAN

568 TO 1003 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Bohemia was occupied by Slavic tribes arriving from the east in the sixth century when the Lombards left. It then became a part of the state of Great Moravia. On the collapse of the Moravian empire a native monarchy arose. They secured the kingdom by entering a semi-vassal state with the East Frankish kingdom. In 995 CE it was seized by Poland but was secured for the Holy Roman Empire in 1004 when Jaromír of Bohemia was granted fief of the Kingdom of Bohemia by Emperor King Henry II.

TROOP NOTES

The Bohemians fought in a Slavic style. Frankish "knights" were employed, as were horse archers under Magyar influence.

EARLY KHAZAR

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Khazars were a semi-nomadic Turkic people, who created what for its duration was the most powerful polity to emerge from the breakup of the western Turkish steppe empire, known as the Khazar Khanate or Khazaria. Astride a major artery of commerce between northern Europe and southwestern Asia, Khazaria became one of the foremost trading emporia of the medieval world, commanding the western marches of the Silk Road and playing a key commercial role as a crossroads between China, the Middle East and Kievan Rus.

TROOP NOTES

The Khazars fought in a similar style to other steppes armies. According to Arabic sources the Khazars operated a dual kingship, a greater king or Khagan whose role was primarily sacred and a lesser king shad/bäk who commanded the military.

MAGYAR

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Magyars were subjects of the Khazars who joined by some Khazars migrated west from the Don valley to modern Ukraine in the middle of the 9th century CE. From 862 they launched a series of raids on the East Frankish Empire, Great Moravia, and Bulgaria. In the 890s they moved into the Carpathian basin (modern Hungary and Romania). For the next sixty years they continued to raid central Europe. Their defeat by the Germans at Lechfeld in 955 ended the threat to Western Europe. In 1000 their High Prince, Vajk, accepted Christianity and was recognised as Stephen I, king of Hungary.

TROOP NOTES

The Kavar were rebel Turkic mercenaries who joined the Magyars and held a pre-eminent position. They probably provided the bodyguard to the Kende.

VOLGA BULGAR

675 TO 1237 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

One group of Bulgars moved east when they were attacked by the Khazars around 675 CE and set up a new state in the middle of the Volga and Kama valleys. The state became a trading centre. In 922 they adopted Islam. They were subordinate to the Khazars until the fall of the Khazar empire in 965. They fought against the expanding Rus principalities until the Volga Bulgar capital and state were destroyed by the Mongols in 1237.

TROOP NOTES

The Volga Bulgars became settled but could draw on more nomadic tribesmen in their armies. They could also draw on tribes occupying the forests to the north.

FIRST BULGARIAN EMPIRE

681 TO 1018 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

In around 680 CE, Khan Asparukh conquered Scythia Minor, opening access to Moesia, and established the First Bulgarian Empire. In the time of Tervel (700 to 721) the Bulgars helped Byzantines twice, in 705 the emperor Justinian II to regain his throne, and 717 to 718 defeating the Arabs during the siege of Constantinople. Sevar (738 to 753) was the last ruler from the Dulo clan, and the period until c. 768 to 772 was characterized by the Byzantino-Bulgar conflict and internal crisis. In the short period followed seven rulers from the Uokil and Ugain clan. Telerig (768 to 777) managed to establish a pacific policy with Byzantium and restore imperial power. During the reign of Khan Krum (803 to 814), the Empire doubled its size, including new lands in Macedonia and Serbia. He also successfully repelled the invading force of the Byzantines, as well defeated the Pannonian Avars. The greatest expansion of the Empire and prosperity came during the time of Simeon I (893 to 927) and this is considered as the Bulgarian Golden Age. However, from the time of Peter I (927 to 969) their power declined. The Hungarians, Kievan Rus' Slavs, as well Pechenegs and Cumans held many raids into their territory, and so weakened were eventually conquered in 1018 by the Byzantine Empire.

TROOP NOTES

Bulgar armies were largely Slavicised led by a Bulgar military aristocracy. Nobles and their retinues constituted the only regular standing army.

KHAZAR

738 TO 968 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

Khazaria served as a buffer state between the Byzantine empire and both the nomads of the northern steppes and the Umayyad empire. The alliance was dropped around 900 CE. Byzantium began to encourage the Alans to attack Khazaria and weaken its hold on Crimea and the Caucasus, while seeking to obtain an entente with the rising Rus' power to the north, which it aspired to convert to Christianity. Between 965 and 969, the Kievan Rus' ruler Sviatoslav I of Kiev conquered the capital Atil and destroyed the Khazar state.

TROOP NOTES

The Khaganate maintained a standing "Royal Army" of full-time paid cavalry. Most armed with bow, but some with lance "like the Muslims". Khazar nobles themselves carried bows but are reported to have preferred to use their lances. The Royal Army was supplemented for major campaigns with levies from the Khazars' numerous subject tribes. Arsiyah was the name used for a group of Muslim mercenaries in the service of the Khazar Khaganate. According to Muslim sources, the Arsiyah formed the core of the Khazar army and were extremely influential in Khazar politics, but these assertions may be designed to exaggerate the importance of the Muslim community in Khazaria. The Arsiyah did often act independently of their government. Part of the treaty binding them to Khazar service guaranteed that they would not be used to fight other Muslims.

PECHENEG

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Pechenegs or Patzinaks moved west from their Central Asian homeland during the first half of the 9th century. In the latter half of the 9th century CE, they drove the Magyars into Hungary and controlled much of the steppes of southwestern Eurasia and the Crimean Peninsula. For more than two centuries they fought the Rus. In the late 10th and early 11th centuries they were defeated by the Rus and forced by other tribes towards the Danube. They were defeated in 1091 at the Battle of Levounion by a combined Byzantine and Cuman army and destroyed by the Byzantines at Beroia in 1122. The remnants were absorbed by the Hungarians and Bulgars.

TROOP NOTES

The Pechenegs were typical horse archers, their main tactic being to concentrate on encirclement and picking off isolated bodies. The unusual feature of their armies was the use of large numbers of wagons with high wooden sides pierced for archery.

RUS

860 TO 1054 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Rus were Vikings who traded and raided along the rivers of Russia. In 860 CE they sailed across the Black Sea with 200 ships and raided Constantinople. The Kievan Rus state founded in 880 controlled the trade routes from the Byzantine empire to the Baltic. Around 968 they decisively defeated the Khazar Khaganate. They also inflicted a series of defeats on the Bulgar empire. After the death of Yaroslav the wise in 1054 the Kievan state broke up into a number of rival principalities.

TROOP NOTES

Rus largely fought in the Scandinavian style.

LEIDANG

950 TO 1070 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list represents home armies in Norway and Denmark. Norwegian, Danish, and Swedish armies abroad are represented by the Viking list. During the 8th century CE Scandinavian chieftains were able to control trade and grew in power. The development of the longship and improvements in navigation initiated the Viking age. In the mid-9th century, the largest chieftains of the petty kingdoms started a major power struggle. Harald Fairhair started the process of unifying Norway after the decisive Battle of Hafrsfjord. Iceland was discovered by Norwegians during the late 9th century. By 930 the island had been divided among 400 Norse chieftains. Håkon the Good who ruled from 930 to 960 established the leidang.

The Franks recorded kings of Denmark from the end of the 8th century. Gorm the Old who reigned from 936 is the first recognised king of Denmark. The Danes were united and officially christianized in 965 by Gorm's son Harald Bluetooth. Harald had also "won" Norway. In England, the son of Harald, Sweyn Forkbeard mounted a series of wars of conquest against England. By 1014, England had completely submitted to the Danes. However, distance and a lack of common interests prevented a lasting union, and Harald's son Cnut the Great barely maintained the link between the two countries, which completely broke up during the reign of his son Hardecanute. A final attempt by the Norwegians under Harald Hardrada to reconquer England failed.

Sweden during this period mostly comprised of petty kingdoms. There was trade and connections between the Swedish nobles and the Rus. About 1000, the first king known to rule over both Svealand and Götaland was Olof Skötkonung, but the further history is obscure.

TROOP NOTES

The leidang of Norway is first mentioned CE 985. The leidang in Denmark was established in the Medieval era, but the contribution to the defence of the realm became a duty with the rise of the monarchies. Bondi were farmers.

EARLY POLISH

HISTORICAL NOTES

Poland was established as a nation state under the Piast dynasty, which ruled the country between the 10th and 14th centuries CE. Historical records of an official Polish state begin with Duke Mieszko I in the second half of the 10th century. Mieszko began his rule sometime before 963 and continued until his death in 992. Mieszko completed a unification of the West Slavic tribal lands. Following its emergence, the Polish nation was led by a series of rulers who converted the population to Christianity.

TROOP NOTES

The core of the army were cavalry, spearmen, and archers.

CUMAN OR KIPCHAK

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Cumans or Kipchaks were an offshoot of the Kimaks. They replaced the Pechenegs north of the Black Sea. They defeated the southern Russian princes in 1068 CE. By 1090 they were established on the Danube. In 1091 they allied with the Byzantines to defeat the Pechenegs at Levunium. After the Mongol invasions they were mainly absorbed by the Hungarians and Russians, with the last independent tribes being conquered by Timur.

TROOP NOTES

The army were primarily horse archers, but adopted the javelin, possibly under Russian influence.
