ARMY LISTS

INDIA

Edited by Richard Jeffrey-Cook. Contributions from Simon Hall, Nik Gaukroger and Lance Flint. Front image by Simon Clarke.

CONTENTS

The lists are divided into three sections, Maximus, Magna and Pacto. Within each section are the following lists:

4701	Anuradhapura Kingdom	161 BCE to 1070 CE
4702	Tamil Indian	275 to 1450 CE
4703	Gupta Indian	320 to 615 CE
4704	Late Classical Indian	543 to 1339 CE
4705	Rajput Indian	600 to 1508 CE
4706	Empire of Harsha	606 to 647 CE
4707	Arab Indian	724 to 1026 CE
4708	Chola Empire	980 to 1279 CE
4709	Ghurid	1100 to 1222 CE
4710	Muslim Indian Sultanates	1192 to 1508 CE
4711	Vijayanagar	1336 to 1505 CE

CREATING AN ARMY WITH THE MORTEM ET GLORIAM ARMY LISTS

Use the army lists to create your own customised armies using the Mortem et Gloriam Army Builder.

There are few general rules to follow:

1. An army must have at least 2 generals and can have no more than 4.
2. You must take at least the minimum of any troops noted and may not go beyond the maximum of any.
3. No army may have more than two generals who are Talented or better.
4. Unless specified otherwise, all elements in a UG must be classified identically. Unless specified otherwise, if an optional characteristic is taken, it must be taken by all the elements in the UG for which that optional characteristic is available.
5. Any UGs can be downgraded by one quality grade and/or by one shooting skill (Skilled to Experienced or Experienced to Unskilled) representing less strong, tired, or understrength troops. If any bases are downgraded all in the UG must be downgraded. So Average-Experienced skirmishers can always be downgraded to Poor-Unskilled.
6. Points are shown for troops with all mandatory characteristics applied. Points have been rounded to the nearest whole number. If quality or shooting skill is downgraded, then the points (including the points for any optional characteristics) will need to be adjusted.
7. An army entirely of Cavalry, Chariots, Camelry or Infantry with the Dismountable characteristic may choose the No Camp option.

Where allies are allowed, they must conform to the following rules:

1. An ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list being used.
3. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.
4. Unless specified in the notes, the general must be the same type as the army commander in their own army's list but cannot be legendary.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

Where an internal ally is allowed, and no contingent is specified they must conform to the following rules:

1. Each internal ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. The total number of troops taken of each type in the entire army must not exceed the maxima for that troop type.
3. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list if there is enough allowance for a UG after the core army itself has taken the minimum. For example: An army has 4-12 cavalry (UG size 4,6) and 18-32 spearmen (UG size 6,8,9) as compulsory troops with 2 internal allies. The core army must take 4 cavalry and at least 18 spearmen. The first ally must take 4 cavalry and at least 9 spearmen. The second ally must take 4 cavalry but cannot take the 9 spearmen as this would exceed the 32 spearmen limit for the army.

4. If a list requires a proportion of a troop type to be upgraded or regraded, then the army as a whole must comply with this requirement. Internal allies do not have to comply these requirements. For example: $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of Turcomans must be upgraded from Experienced to Skilled shooting. An internal ally might have all Experienced as long as the army as a whole has $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ Skilled.
5. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

As a courtesy to your opponent when you deploy your troops, you should describe each UG fully; type, training, quality, protection, melee weaponry, shooting skill and weaponry and characteristics. You should also explain how any unusual troop types in your army function and any special rules including Stakes, Caltrops, Barricades and Obstacles and troop types such as Battle Wagons.

The easiest way to calculate points is to use the downloadable on-line army builder at www.mortem-et-gloriam.co.uk. Use this and all you do is use drop downs for the troop classifications and it does all the work for you. For those who prefer pen and paper, or who want to doodle some approximate designs before loading an army up, we have provided the points values with the lists. If a discrepancy exists in the points values between these lists and the army builder, then the army builder has the correct value.

FRIENDLY AND SCENARIO GAMES

Feel free to vary the troop classifications for friendly and scenario games. An interesting aspect of scenario games can be to see what the effect is from representing troops in a different manner.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION

The Gupta empire dominated northern India during the 4th and 5th centuries CE. The empire faced numerous invasions by a branch of the Huns in the north-west. The invasions led to the collapse of the Gupta empire and India was again ruled by numerous regional kingdoms. A minor line of the Gupta clan continued to rule Magadha after the disintegration of the empire. These Guptas were ultimately ousted by Vardhana ruler Harsha, who established his empire in the first half of the 7th century. The empire of Harsha was short-lived, and the area again collapsed into regional kingdoms.

The first clash between a ruler of an Indian kingdom and the Arabs took place in 643 CE, when Arab forces defeated Rutbil, King of Zabulistan in Sistan. By 653 CE they bordered the Kingdoms of Kapisa, Zabul and Sindh in Afghanistan and Pakistan. The Kabul Shahi kings and their Zunbil kinsmen blocked access to the Khyber Pass and Gomul Pass routes into India for the next 217 years. It wasn't until 710 CE that the Arabs entered Al Hind (India) and the Indus valley through Sindh. For the next 30 years the Arabs campaigned against the Rajput kingdoms in the Indus valley, reaching the foothills of Kashmir. In 739 CE they invaded the Deccan but were decisively defeated at Navsari by the viceroy Avanijanashraya Pulakesi of the Chalukya Empire serving Vikramaditya II. Arab rule was restricted to the west of Thar desert.

The Arabs continued to control areas of Sindh and the Punjab and raided the ports of Gujarat. The Saffarid Dynasty occupied Kabul in 871 CE. A new chapter of Muslim conquests began when the Samanid Dynasty took over the Saffarid Kingdom and Sabuktigin, founder of the Ghaznavid dynasty, seized Ghazni. Ghaznavid rule in North-western India lasted over 175 years, from 1010 to 1187 CE.

The Gurjara-Pratiharas were instrumental in containing Arab armies moving east of the Indus River. They were involved in a three-way struggle for control of northern and central India in the 9th century. The other empires were the Pala Empire, based in Bengal and the Rashtrakuta Empire in the Deccan. The Rashtrakutas had overthrown the Chalukyas of Badami.

Further south and east were the Chalukyas of Vengi. In the 970's the Rashtrakuta empire collapsed and much of its territory was captured by the Chalukyas of Kalyani. Both the Rashtrakuta empire and the Chalukyas of Kalyani faced threats from the Tamil kingdoms to the south and east. The Pandyas ruled much of southern India from the 6th to 9th centuries but from around 880 CE onwards they fell under the growing influence of the Chola Empire. The southern empires periodically invaded Sri Lanka which was controlled by the Anuradhapura Kingdom but were unable to establish a permanent presence on the island.

MAXIMUS ARMY LISTS

CALCULATING POINTS

Army points are calculated as follows:

GENERALS - MAXIMUS

Type of general	Army Commander		Sub-general		Ally general
	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive
Legendary	1600	1400	n/a	n/a	800	700
Talented	1100	900	850	700	650	600
Competent	700	550	600	450	300	250
Mediocre	250	0	400	250	100	50

CAMPS

Type of camp	Poor	Average	Superior
Unfortified	108	180	252
Fortified	216	360	504
Flexible	180	300	420
Mobile	126	210	294
No camp	378	N/A	N/A

A flexible camp is deployed as a fortified camp when defending and a mobile camp when invading.
No camp deploys a poor mobile camp when defending and no camp at all when invading.

UGs

For each UG multiply the cost shown in the list (adjusting for any optional characteristics) by the number of bases.

NOTES

1. Points values for skirmishers in Magna and Pacto are greater than in Maximus as SuGs shoot at full effect with only two ranks.
2. For further details on how points are calculated visit the Mortem et Gloriam website.

ANURADHAPURA KINGDOM

161 BCE to 1070 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Anuradhapura Kingdom was a Sinhalese kingdom that originated in the 6th century BCE. Dutthagamani, who reigned from 161 to 137 BCE, killed 32 rulers to control the whole island of Sri Lanka. Not all the succeeding kings could control the whole kingdom. The kingdom faced a number of invasions from India. The country was invaded in 103 BCE and the invaders ruled until 89 BCE when they were defeated by Valagamba. Another invasion occurred in 433 CE and only defeated by Dhatusena in 459 CE. More invasions occurred between 833 and 853 CE and from 935 to 938 CE. In all cases the invaders could not extend their rule to the southern part of the island. In 993 CE, the Chola Emperor Rajaraja I invaded forcing Mahinda V to flee. A further invasion in 1017 CE captured Mahinda V and sacked the capital city of Anuradhapura and ended the Kingdom.

TROOP NOTES

The Sinhalese do not appear to have a good military reputation, possibly from a reliance on a large militia army. Sinhalese elephants were supposed to be small but fierce. Although chariots still were in use in 1117 CE this is much more likely to have been for diplomatic or ceremonial purposes. Cavalry and chariots were not numerous in Sinhalese armies which mainly relied on infantry.

TAMIL INDIAN

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the Pallavas and the Pandyas. Pallavas became a major power during the reign of Mahendravarman I (571 to 630 CE) and Narasimhavarman I (630 to 668). The Pallavas were in constant conflict with both Chalukyas of Badami in the north and the Tamil kingdoms of Chola and Pandyas in the south and were finally defeated by the Chola kings in the 9th century. The Pandyas were a Tamil dynasty that ruled in southern India from 590 to 920. The list also covers the rise of the Chola Empire from 848 to 979. It includes the Hoysala kingdom from 1100. The Pandyas re-emerged as the Chola empire failed from 1216 to about 1345 when they succumbed to Vijayanagar. This list also includes the Sinhalese kingdoms of Polonnaruwa, Dambadeniya, Gampola and Kotte. Kotte was invaded by forces disembarked from a Ming treasure fleet in 1410 or 1411.

TROOP NOTES

Armies consisted of elephants, cavalry, and infantry. Southern Indian armies were short of good horses. The bow remained the chief infantry weapon, but a variety of bladed weapons were also in use.

GUPTA INDIAN

320 TO 615 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

At the beginning of the 4th century CE, the Guptas established and ruled a few small Hindu kingdoms in Magadha and around modern-day Bihar. Chandragupta I, who ruled from around 320 to 335 expanded his rule from the Ganges River to Prayaga (modern-day Allahabad) and assumed the imperial title of maharajadhiraja. His son continued the expansion of the empire incorporating over 20 kingdoms. Under the grandson, Chandragupta II the expansion continued into north-west India where according to the Kashmiri writer Kshemendra he defeated the Sakas and the Huns. After the death of Skandagupta in 467 the empire started to weaken. A group known as Alchon Huns, broke through the Gupta defences in the north-west. The invasions left northern India in disarray with urban culture in decline and many small kingdoms emerging. The invasions disrupted the trade between India and the Roman empire. The Aulikaras of Malwa were feudatories of the Gupta Empire but under Yashodharman conquered most of the Gupta Empire. The last known inscription by a Gupta emperor is dated to 543 CE.

South of the Gupta Empire the territories were ruled by the Vakataka dynasty. They may have been feudatories of the Gupta Empire at times.

TROOP NOTES

The Guptas followed the classical Indian traditional approach to warfare with elephants, cavalry and infantry. Although there are references to chariots, any wheeled vehicle could be described as a chariot, and it seems that traditional chariots had fallen out of use by this time. There is some evidence for the use of armoured lancers. The Guptas seem to have relied heavily on infantry archers, and the bow was one of the dominant weapons of their army. Archers were frequently protected by infantry equipped with shields, javelins, and longswords.

LATE CLASSICAL INDIAN

543 TO 1339 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the kingdoms of the Late Classical Indians including the Pala Empire, the Rashtrakutas, the Chalukya states and the Kalchuris of Tripuri.

The Kingdom of Balur was a Pamir state in the 7th and 8th centuries close to the Silk Road. Control was contested by the Tang Chinese and Tibetan empires until the An Lushan rebellion. After this time, it fell into Tibetan control.

The Pala Empire was located in Bengal between the mid-7th century and 1036 CE. The Palas started as a city-state but expanded to create an extensive Northern Indian empire. They contested control of India in the 9th century with the Pratihara Empire and the Rashtrakuta Empire. It was eventually overthrown by the Sena Dynasty.

The Rashtrakuta Empire was based in the Deccan area of India from 752 to 983. The military exploits of Govinda III (793 to 814) apparently compared to Alexander the Great. "His horses drank from Himalayan streams and war elephants tasted the sacred waters of the Ganges".

There were three Chalukya states (not to be confused with the Chaululukya (Solanki) Rajput dynasty). They were the Chalukyas of Badami, Chalukyas of Vengi and Chalukyas of Kalyani.

The Chalukyas of Badami, also known as the Early Chalukya ruled from 543 to 753. The empire reached its peak under Vikramaditya II (733 to 744) who defeated the Pallava Nandivarman II. The Empire was overthrown by the Rashtrakuta King Dantidurga in 753.

The Chalukyas of Vengi, also known as the Eastern Chalukya, ruled from 624 to 1189. Located around Vengi, they were the cause of many wars between the more powerful Chola empire and the Western Chalukyas.

The Chalukyas of Kalyani, also known as the Western Chalukya, ruled from 973 to 1189. They controlled Deccan territories after the Rashtrakutas. They were overwhelmed by the Seuna, Hoysala and the Kakatiyas.

The Kakatiyas were vassals of the Rashtrakutas and Western Chalukyas who gained independence after the decline of the Chalukyas. They were conquered by the Delhi Sultanate.

The Kalchuris of Tripuri ruled the Chedi region from 675 to 1212. They fought wars against the Gurjara-Pratiharas, the Chandelas and the Paramaras. They may have been allied to Western Chalukyas. They were ultimately absorbed by the Delhi Sultanate. A branch of the Kalachuris established an independent kingdom at Ratnapura.

TROOP NOTES

According to the contemporary accounts, the Rashtrakutas had the best infantry, the Gurjara-Pratiharas had the finest cavalry and the Palas had the largest elephant force.

RAJPUT INDIAN

600 TO 1508 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

From the beginning of the 7th century CE, Rajput dynasties dominated Northern India and Pakistan. They became the primary obstacle to the complete Muslim conquest of Hindu North India. Dynasties included:

Chandelas (831 to 1203). They were centred around Khajuraho (Madhya Pradesh). Originally vassals of the of the Gurjara Pratihars they became independent under Yashovarman (925 to 950) and his successors Dhanga, Ganda and Vidyadhara. Faced an invasion by the Ghaznavids which weakened the kingdom. Around 1130 they took advantage of decline of neighbouring kingdoms to expand. Invaded by the Delhi Sultanate in 1203.

Chavda (690 to 942). Centred around Panchasar (Gujarat). Succeeded by the Western Chalukya empire.

Gahadvalas (1090 to 1194). Centred around Uttar Pradesh and Bihar (on the Ganges plain). Succeeded the Kalachuri. Defeated in 1194 by Ghurids and then absorbed into the Delhi Sultanate.

Guhilas (7th century – 1303). Centred around Nagahrada (Rajasthan). Fought the Paramaras in 11th and Chaulukyas in 12th century. Absorbed into the Delhi Sultanate.

Nagavanshi (11th – 14th century). Centred on Chhattisgarh.

Paramara (9th – 14th century). Centred around Dhara (Madhya Pradesh). Fought the Chaulukyas of Gujarat, the Chalukyas of Kalyani, the Kalachuris of Tripuri and finally absorbed into the Delhi Sultanate.

Chaulukya Dynasty also referred to as the Solankis (940 to 1244). Located in Gujarat and Rajasthan. Faced an invasion from the Ghaznavid ruler Mahmud during 1024-1025. Succeeded by the Vaghela Dynasty (another Rajput dynasty) who ruled until 1304 when absorbed into the Delhi Sultanate.

TROOP NOTES

The Rajputs were noted for their reliance on aristocratic cavalry and a heroic ethos which substituted a suicidal mass charge for surrender. The Bhatti were noted camel riders.

EMPIRE OF HARSHA

606 TO 650 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Pushyabhuti dynasty, also known as the Vardhana dynasty, ruled parts of northern India during 6th and 7th centuries after the collapse of the Gupta empire. Its most powerful leader was Harsha, who was crowned as Emperor in 606 CE. The Empire's administration followed that of the Gupta empire. The Empire itself operated an Indian feudal system with local rulers holding kingdoms on behalf of the emperor. Harsha also maintained diplomatic relations with the Chinese Emperor Taizong. After the death of Harsha in 647 the Empire rapidly disintegrated into small kingdoms. In around 648 the Empire was invaded by a Tibetan force of 1,200 Tibetan and 7,000 Nepalese raised by a Chinese official who had been attacked by the new emperor.

TROOP NOTES

During his early career Harsha is said to have possessed a force of 5,000 elephants, 20,000 cavalry and 50,000 infantry. After his conquests it is claimed he could field 100,000 cavalry and 60,000 elephants.

ARAB INDIAN

HISTORICAL NOTES

Between 710 and 712 CE an Arab force penetrated the River Indus from the sea and conquered most of the regions of Sind and Kutch. Control of the area was only secured in 724 CE. Sind became independent from the Caliphate when the Umayyad Caliphate was overthrown in 751 CE. The area remained under Arab control until an Arab army was defeated in 833. Islam after this time only survived in two small states, Mansurah and Multan. Both states were finally suppressed by Qutb-ud-Din Aibek, the founder of the Delhi Sultanate. Armies before 724 CE should be taken from the Umayyad and Early 'Abbasid list.

CHOLA EMPIRE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Cholas were a powerful kingdom between 10th and 13th centuries CE with a strong naval presence extending to the Malay peninsula.

TROOP NOTES

The Chola dynasty had a professional military, of which the king was the supreme commander. There were regiments of bowmen and swordsmen while the swordsmen were the most permanent and dependable troops. The Chola army was spread all over the country and was stationed in local garrisons or military camps known as Kodagams. The elephants played a major role in the army and the dynasty had numerous war elephants.

From Uttama's time, warriors were provided with waistcoats of armour.

GHURID

1100 TO 1222 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Ghurids were Afghan tribesmen living in the Ghur mountains. They ended Ghaznavid rule in India and founded an Indian state that lasted from 1148 until 1206 CE. The Indian possessions broke away in 1206 to form the Delhi Sultanate. The Ghurid kingdom was conquered by the Khwarazmians in 1215 but continued as subject vassals until 1222.

TROOP NOTES

Some infantry were equipped with the Karwah which was bullock-hide stuffed with cotton that was worn over the entire body. It was said to be impenetrable to both missiles and weapons. This is treated like a Pavise.

MUSLIM INDIAN SULTANATES

1192 TO 1508 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

In 1192 CE, the Ghurid Sultan Mu'izz ad-Din Muhammad destroyed a Hindu Indian army at the second battle of Tarain and went on to conquer Delhi. Following his assassination his senior Ghilman established a series of states and adopted the title Sultan. The best known is the Delhi Sultanate which in a series of wars extended its power east to Bengal and south to the Deccan. Other sultanates included the Bahmani Sultanate, the Nair (or Kozhikode) and the Muzaffarid Dynasty of Gujarat. In the early 16th century the Timurid ruler Babur, a direct descendent of Timur, invaded India and founded the Mughal Empire which lasted until 1857.

TROOP NOTES

Unlike Hindu armies, cavalry were regarded as the main arm. Muslim cavalry used a long light lance and Turkish bow.

Elephants had a fighting crew in a Howdah and were supported by escort infantry. In the Zafar-Nāma by Sharaf-ud-dīn 'Alī Yazdī there is the following description "The enemy's great reliance was on his enormous war elephants, 120 in number. They were covered with armour, and on their backs was a kind of litter or cage, in which crossbowmen and discus-throwers were concealed. Sharp poisoned points were fastened firmly to their tusks. Rocket-men (takhsh-afgan) and grenade-throwers (ra'd-andāz) marched by their sides." Neo-Muslims were Mongols who had converted to Islam.

The Rathors were a Hindu Rajput clan who although semi-independent had to provide contingents of cavalry.

Gunpowder skirmishers include "grenade" throwers (ra'd-andaz), firework throwers (atash-baz) and those using hand-held rockets (taksh-andaz).

VIJAYANAGAR

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Vijayanagara Empire dominated the Deccan from 1336 CE until approximately 1660, with the last century being a period of weakened influence. It was founded by Harihara or Hakka, and his brother Bukka Raya. Its capital city was Vijayanagara, which they founded in 1336. For two centuries, the Vijayanagar Empire dominated all southern India. The empire also acted as the main opponent to blunt the advances of the five main Muslim Sultanates from the north and fought a series of wars with the Bahmani Sultanate for control of the Deccan. The Empire reached its peak during the rule of Krishna Deva Raya in the early 16th century.

This list also includes the Gajapati Empire from its foundation in 1434, replacing the Eastern Ganga dynasty.

TROOP NOTES

Vijayanagar was unusual amongst southern Indian armies in that it paid more attention to its cavalry arm, importing large numbers of horses at vast expense. They also bought in Muslim mercenary cavalry and trained some of its own cavalry in Muslim tactics.
