CREATING AN ARMY WITH THE MORTEM ET GLORIAM ARMY LISTS

Use the army lists to create your own customised armies using the Mortem et Gloriam Army Builder.

There are few general rules to follow:

1. An army must have at least 2 generals and can have no more than 4.
2. You must take at least the minimum of any troops noted and may not go beyond the maximum of any.
3. No army may have more than two generals who are Talented or better.
4. Unless specified otherwise, all elements in a UG must be classified identically. Unless specified otherwise, if an optional characteristic is taken, it must be taken by all the elements in the UG for which that optional characteristic is available.
5. Any UGs can be downgraded by one quality grade and/or by one shooting skill (Skilled to Experienced or Experienced to Unskilled) representing less strong, tired, or understrength troops. If any bases are downgraded all in the UG must be downgraded. So Average-Experienced skirmishers can always be downgraded to Poor-Unskilled.
6. Points are shown for troops with all mandatory characteristics applied. Points have been rounded to the nearest whole number. If quality or shooting skill is downgraded, then the points (including the points for any optional characteristics) will need to be adjusted.
7. An army entirely of Cavalry, Chariots, Camelry or Infantry with the Dismountable characteristic may choose the No Camp option.

Where allies are allowed, they must conform to the following rules:

1. An ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list being used.
3. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.
4. Unless specified in the notes, the general must be the same type as the army commander in their own army's list but cannot be legendary.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

Where an internal ally is allowed, and no contingent is specified they must conform to the following rules:

1. Each internal ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. The total number of troops taken of each type in the entire army must not exceed the maxima for that troop type.
3. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list if there is enough allowance for a UG after the core army itself has taken the minimum. For example: An army has 4-12 cavalry (UG size 4,6) and 18-32 spearmen (UG size 6,8,9) as compulsory troops with 2 internal allies. The core army must take 4 cavalry and at least 18 spearmen. The first ally must take 4 cavalry and at least 9 spearmen. The second ally must take 4 cavalry but cannot take the 9 spearmen as this would exceed the 32 spearmen limit for the army.

4. If a list requires a proportion of a troop type to be upgraded or regraded, then the army as a whole must comply with this requirement. Internal allies do not have to comply these requirements. For example: $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of Turcomans must be upgraded from Experienced to Skilled shooting. An internal ally might have all Experienced as long as the army as a whole has $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ Skilled.
5. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

As a courtesy to your opponent when you deploy your troops, you should describe each UG fully; type, training, quality, protection, melee weaponry, shooting skill and weaponry, characteristics, and which ally if appropriate. You should also explain how any unusual troop types in your army function and any special rules including Stakes, Caltrops, Barricades and Obstacles and troop types such as Battle Wagons.

The easiest way to calculate points is to use the downloadable on-line army builder at www.mortem-et-gloriam.co.uk. Use this and all you do is use drop downs for the troop classifications and it does all the work for you. For those who prefer pen and paper, or who want to doodle some approximate designs before loading an army up, we have provided the points values with the lists. If a discrepancy exists in the points values between these lists and the army builder, then the army builder has the correct value.

FRIENDLY AND SCENARIO GAMES

Feel free to vary the troop classifications for friendly and scenario games. An interesting aspect of scenario games can be to see what the effect is from representing troops in a different manner.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION

Ostsiedlung was the medieval eastward migration and settlement of Germanic-speaking peoples from the Holy Roman Empire into less-populated regions of Central Europe, western parts of Eastern Europe, and the Baltics.

With the death of Yaroslav the Wise in 1054 CE, the Kievan Rus' state started to gradually disintegrate. The sons of Yaroslav struggled for power and the position of the Grand Prince of Kiev was weakened by the growing influence of regional clans. The decline of Constantinople, a main trading partner, played a significant role in the decline of the Kievan Rus'. The last ruler to maintain a united state was Mstislav the Great. After his death in 1132 the Kievan Rus' fell into recession and a rapid decline. In 1169 Kiev was sacked. By the end of the 12th century, the Kievan state became even further fragmented and had been divided into roughly twelve different principalities. In the north, the Republic of Novgorod prospered because it controlled trade routes from the River Volga to the Baltic Sea. In 1136, Novgorod revolted against Kiev, and became independent, ruled by a local oligarchy. In the north east, the city of Rostov, the oldest centre, was supplanted first by Suzdal and then by the city of Vladimir. To the southwest, the principality of Halych emerged as a local power and in 1202 conquered Kiev.

The state finally disintegrated under the pressure of the Mongol invasion, fragmenting into principalities who paid tribute to the Golden Horde. In the late 15th century the Muscovite Grand Dukes began taking over former territories and proclaimed themselves the sole legal successors of the Kievan principality.

On the western periphery, the Principality of Galicia-Volhynia fell to the Grand Duchy of Lithuania. During the 11th century the Lithuanians had been paying tribute to the Kievan Rus. From the mid-12th century, it was the Lithuanians who were invading Russian principalities. In 1183, Polotsk and Pskov were ravaged and the Novgorod Republic was repeatedly threatened. In 1219, twenty-one Lithuanian chiefs including Mindaugas signed a peace treaty with the state of Galicia-Volhynia. In 1236 the pope declared a crusade against the Lithuanians. In 1250, Mindaugas entered into an agreement with the Teutonic Order; in 1251 he received baptism and with their support he confirmed his rule over Lithuania. In 1253 he was crowned as King, the only time in the history of Lithuania. In 1260, the Samogitians submitted to Mindaugas. Mindaugas was murdered in 1263. Pagan Lithuania was a target of the Teutonic knights. Whilst other Baltic tribes were conquered, the Lithuanians survived despite raids from the Mongols in 1241, 1259 and 1275. In 1325, Casimir, the son of the Polish king Władysław I, married Aldona, daughter of Gediminas, the Grand Duke of Lithuania. The defensive alliance with Poland allowed the Lithuanians to expand rapidly into the vast expanses of the Rus territory and in the 14th and 15th centuries Lithuania extended from the Baltic to the Black Sea. Grand Duke Jogaila agreed to become a Catholic when offered the Polish crown. Given the baptismal name Władysław, he was crowned King of Poland in 1386 and a dynastic union with Poland ensued.

Poland formally became a medieval kingdom in 1025 under Boleslaw I. He overstretched the resources of the early Polish state and the monarchy wasn't re-established until 1076. In 1226 a Polish duke invited the Teutonic Knights to help him fight the Baltic Prussian pagans. The Teutonic Order destroyed the Prussians but kept their lands, which resulted in centuries of warfare between Poland and the Teutonic Knights. Attempts to reunite the Polish lands gained momentum in the 13th century. In 1295 Duke Przemysław II was crowned King of Poland but was soon killed. Wenceslas II of Bohemia was crowned King in 1300. In 1308, the Teutonic Knights seized Gdańsk and the surrounding region of Pomerelia. King Casimir III the Great restored Poland but lost the western provinces of Silesia and Pomerania. The Polish royal line died out in 1370. Poland came under the rule of Angevin Louis I of Hungary who presided over a union of Hungary and Poland that lasted until 1382. Poland's struggle with the Teutonic Knights continued and culminated in the Battle of Grunwald (1410). The Poles and Lithuanians inflicted a heavy defeat on the knights.

After England broke away from Danish control in 1035, Denmark fell into disarray. Eventually, Valdemar the Great (reigned 1146 to 1182), gained control of the kingdom, stabilizing it and reorganizing the administration. The Wends were conquered, converted to Christianity and subjected to Danish suzerainty. In 1202, Valdemar II became king and launched various "crusades" to claim territories, notably modern Estonia. Whilst successful, a series of Danish defeats resulted in the loss of territory in north Germany. By the late 13th century, royal power had waned. A weakened Denmark provided windows of opportunity to both the Hanseatic League and the Counts of Holstein.

Norway was at peace from 1040 to 1130, when an era of civil wars broke out. The wars ended in 1217 with the reign of Haakon IV. Under his rule medieval Norway reached a golden age. His influence extended to Ireland, France and the Holy Roman Empire. He added Iceland and Greenland to his kingdom. He was attempting to control the western shores of Scotland when he died in 1260. In 1349 the Black Death spread to Norway and severely reduced the population. The Hanseatic League took control over Norwegian trade during the 14th century.

Sweden was the last of the Scandinavian countries to become a unified Christian kingdom. In the 12th century, Sweden was still consolidating with the dynastic struggles between the Erik and Sverker clans. A third clan, the House of Bjelbo, gradually married all rival royal dynasties in Sweden producing an heir related to them all. When the previous king Eric had died without an heir apparent, Valdemar became King in 1250. Members of the house reigned as kings Sweden until 1364. From 1319 to 1387, they were also kings of Norway.

The Kalmar Union was a personal union that from 1397 to 1523 that joined the three kingdoms of Denmark, Sweden and Norway under a single monarch. The main impetus for its formation was to block German expansion northward into the Baltic region and counter the influence of the Hanseatic League. Diverging interests, particularly Swedish dissatisfaction with the dominant role of Denmark would hamper the union in several intervals from the 1430s until its definitive breakup in 1523 when Gustav Vasa became king of Sweden.

MAXIMUS ARMY LISTS

CALCULATING POINTS

Army points are calculated as follows:

GENERALS - MAXIMUS

Type of general	Army Commander		Sub-general		Ally general
	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive
Legendary	1600	1400	n/a	n/a	800	700
Talented	1100	900	850	700	650	600
Competent	700	550	600	450	300	250
Mediocre	250	0	400	250	100	50

CAMPS

Type of camp	Poor	Average	Superior
Unfortified	108	180	252
Fortified	216	360	504
Flexible	180	300	420
Mobile	126	210	294
No camp	378	N/A	N/A

A flexible camp is deployed as a fortified camp when defending and a mobile camp when invading.
No camp deploys a poor mobile camp when defending and no camp at all when invading.

UGs

For each UG multiply the cost shown in the list (adjusting for any optional characteristics) by the number of bases.

NOTES

1. Points values for skirmishers in Magna and Pacto are greater than in Maximus as SuGs shoot at full effect with only two ranks.
2. For further details on how points are calculated visit the Mortem et Gloriam website.

EARLY RUSSIAN

1055 TO 1246 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

From the mid-11th century, the Kievan Rus ruled over a huge territory including modern Belarus, northern Ukraine and western Russia. The senior prince ruled from Kiev and lesser princes governed the other major cities. As time went on the principalities fought amongst themselves and by the time of the Mongol invasions the principalities included Kiev, Vladimir-Suzdal, Chernigov, Halyth-Volhynia, Polotsk and Smolensk.

TROOP NOTES

The proportion of cavalry increased during this period. Pecheneg and other nomad tribesmen were employed in large numbers. Polk are town militia and smerdy are peasants from the surrounding districts. Town militia supplied well-armed spearmen.

HISTORICAL NOTES

After a period of civil war, Denmark was united by Valdemar the Great. He and his successors launched several "crusades" against Wendland and Estonia, increasing Danish territory. The power of the Danish monarchy declined in the late 13th century as the Counts of Holstein controlled much of the country.

TROOP NOTES

The Danish army at this time was still based upon a leidang, a levy of freemen. As the power and wealth of the aristocracy increased, they increasingly fought mounted.

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the armies of Norway and Sweden. In 1098 CE the King of Norway was formally recognised as overlord of the Western Isles and Isle of Man by Edgar of Scotland. Norway suffered a series of civil wars from 1130 until 1240 when Hakon Hakonsson defeated his last rival. Iceland and Greenland were bought under Norwegian rule. In trying to impose his claim to the western seaboard of Scotland he led an invasion of Scotland that was repulsed at Largs in 1263. He died that winter in Orkney. In the Treaty of Perth in 1266 his successor abandoned Norwegian claims to the Western Isles of Scotland and Isle of Man but remained in control of Orkney and Shetland. From 1130 the throne of Sweden was contested by two dynasties, Sverker in Ostrogotland and Eric in Uppland. In 1250 CE Valdermar Brigersson inherited both dynastic claims and founded the House of Bjälbo that ruled until the late 14th century. Around the same time the Swedes conquered parts of Finland.

FEUDAL POLISH

1100 TO 1335 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

After the reign of Bolesław III Wrymouth (1107 to 1138 CE), Poland was divided amongst his sons. It was to remain divided until the 14th century. In 1240 the Mongols invaded Hungary whilst a smaller force invaded Poland. The Poles were defeated at Liegnitz in 1241, but the Mongols then withdrew after the death of the Great Khan Ogedei.

TROOP NOTES

The Polish nobility were late to adopt Western European tactics and equipment. The wealthier infantry formed up as heavy spearmen. During the 13th century the axe became a popular weapon.

EARLY LITHUANIAN

1132 TO 1299 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list includes the Lithuanians and Samogitians. In the 11th century they paid tribute to the Kievan Rus. By the 12th century they raided neighbouring territories. Facing the threat of the Teutonic knights to the west and the Livonian Brothers of the Sword to the north the Lithuanians were unified by Mindaugas. In 1236 they inflicted a severe defeat on the Livonian brethren. As a result, the brethren were absorbed by the Teutonic knights. Mindaugas signed a treaty with the Teutonic Knights, transferring parts of Samogitia to the order. Mindaugas was crowned as the King of Lithuania in 1253. The Samogitians defeated the order in 1260 at the battle of Durbe. Mindaugas renounced the treaty but was assassinated in 1263 by his nephew. Lithuania reverted to paganism and was no longer recognised as a kingdom.

TROOP NOTES

Earlier Lithuanian armies were raised by family gatherings. Each boyar family mustered under their leaders, bringing with them retainers from their lands. Lithuanian cavalry were equipped with a spear that could be thrust or thrown. They also carried a bow which they would use dismounted. They were fond of skirmishing and ambushes.

ESTONIAN

1200 TO 1227 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

In 1193 CE Pope Celestine III called for a crusade against pagans in Northern Europe. With the help of the newly converted local tribes of Livs and Letts, the crusaders initiated raids into part of what is present-day Estonia in 1208. Estonian tribes fiercely resisted the attacks from Riga and occasionally themselves sacked territories controlled by the crusaders. In 1217 the German crusading order the Sword Brethren and their recently converted allies won a major battle in which the Estonian commander Lembitu was killed. This list also includes the Saaremaa, Livonians and Latgilians.

TROOP NOTES

Estonians appear to have fought on foot, retiring if the shock of their initial impact was unsuccessful.

TEUTONIC ORDERS

1201 TO 1439 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the armies of the Order of the Knights of Christ of Livonia, founded by the Bishop of Riga in 1200. It also covers the Teutonic Knights of the Hospital of St Mary of Jerusalem in Poland in 1226 and the affiliation of the Livonian Knights of the Teutonic Order in 1236. This list covers the Teutonic Order to 1440 CE. After the disastrous battle of Tannenberg in 1410, the Treaty of Thorn compelled the Order to pay massive war indemnities and ransoms for captured troops.

TROOP NOTES

Ritterbruder were knights of the order. The most fielded in one battle was 700 at Tannenberg in 1410. These were supported by other serving brothers and by lay knights of the order. These were joined by crusaders of many nationalities. Tactics included forming large wedges of knights.

NOVGOROD REPUBLIC

1247 TO 1471 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Novgorod Republic was a medieval East Slavic state from the 12th to 15th centuries, stretching from the Baltic Sea to the northern Ural Mountains, including the city of Novgorod and the Lake Ladoga regions of modern Russia. The Republic prospered as the easternmost port of the Hanseatic League. The Princes of Novgorod were invited by Novgorodians from the neighbouring states to lead them. Their power was limited but they always remained an important figure in Novgorodian life. Novgorod struggled from the beginning of the 13th century against Swedish, Danish, and German crusaders. The Novgorod Republic managed to escape the horrors of the Mongol invasion because it was the only Rus principality to submit to the Mongols pre-emptively and peacefully. The Russian principalities of Tver, and Moscow, and Lithuania fought over control of Novgorod and its enormous wealth from the 14th century. As Muscovy grew in strength it became a serious threat to Novgorod. In 1456, the Novgorodians sustained a crushing defeat at the hands of the Muscovite forces and were forced to sign the Treaty of Yazhelbitsy. The Novgorodians were accused of breaking the treaty by seeking an alliance with Poland and were beaten at the Battle of Shelon in 1471. In 1478 Ivan III (the Great) of Russia seized Novgorod for himself.

TROOP NOTES

Novgorod was less influenced by the Mongols and had more contact with European knights. This may have led to less reliance on archery and being more prepared to charge.

POST-MONGOL RUSSIAN

1247 TO 1533 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the armies of Russia from the Mongol conquest until the accession of Ivan the Terrible. The Mongol invasion devastated cities such as Kiev allowing new cities such as Moscow to thrive. The Grand Duchy of Moscow first co-operated with the Mongols and remained a vassal state of the Golden Horde until 1480. Mongol power was challenged a century earlier when the Russians beat the Mongols at the Battle of Kulikovo in 1380. The Mongols returned in 1382 and sacked Moscow. Ivan III (the Great), ruler from 1462 to 1505) forced the lesser Rus princes to acknowledge him and his descendants as their ruler. The defeat of the Mongols at the Great Stand on the Ugra River ended the overlordship of the Golden Horde and annexing the Novgorod Republic in 1478 and Grand Duchy of Tver in 1485 consolidated the core of Russia.

TROOP NOTES

Dvor were the household troops of Russian noblemen and princes.

MEDIEVAL NORWAY

1280 TO 1390 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the armies of Norway from the growth of the king and the aristocracy in the thirteenth century until the Union of Kalmar. The first half of the 14th century is described as a golden age with peace and increase in trade, especially with the British Isles. After the Black Death had spread through Norway in 1349, the population fell by a third. Trade with Germany increased in importance and the Hanseatic League seized control, establishing a trading centre in Bergen. After the Union, Norway was dominated by Denmark and was too weak to overthrow the Union.

TROOP NOTES

Norwegian armies relied on an infantry militia.

1280 TO 1523 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers Swedish armies until the Union in 1397 CE and anti-Union Swedish armies until the end of the Union and the accession of Gustavus Vasa to the Swedish throne. Birger Jarl the Regent was effective ruler from 1248 to 1266. His son, Magnus Ladulas ruled from 1275 to 1290. These rulers abolished serfdom and instituted separate duchies. A formal nobility was established by the Ordinance of Alsno in 1280. The first union between Sweden and Norway occurred in 1319 when the three-year-old Magnus inherited the throne of Norway from his grandfather Haakon V. The long minority weakened royal influence and the Swedes superseded him by his nephew Albert of Mecklenburg in 1365. In 1388 Albert was driven out at the request of the Swedes by Margaret I of Denmark. A union of Denmark, Norway and Sweden was agreed, and Eric of Pomerania was crowned king in 1397 at Kalmar. The attempts of the crown, based in Denmark, to impose their will on the Swedes soon produced secessions. The Swedes first broke away in 1434. In 1441 Sweden was reunited under Christopher of Bavaria but from 1448 to 1470 a state of confusion arose until the kingdoms were reunited under Chistian II of Denmark. In the 16th century, Gustav Vasa fought for an independent Sweden, crushing an attempt to restore the Union of Kalmar, and laying the foundation for modern Sweden.

TROOP NOTES

A feudal knighthood was introduced into Sweden in the 13th century. The Swedish knights were supported by unarmoured mounted attendants with lances as a reserve. Allmoge were Swedish peasant militia equipped with crossbow or bow supported by men with mixed polearms including a "svaedstave", a sword blade with a cross guard on a five-foot pole. They had a fearsome reputation. Barricades were used to block routes through Swedish forests.

HISTORICAL NOTES

Having resisted attempts at conquest by the Teutonic Knights in the 13th century, the pagan Grand Duchy of Lithuania began to expand into what is modern Ukraine and Belarus. They defeated the Tatars and took Smolensk, Kiev and Bryansk. In 1386 the Lithuanian ruler converted to Christianity and became Wladyslaw II Jagiello, king of Poland. Lithuania and Poland remained separate states. Lithuania was governed by a Grand Duke, who was often also King of Poland. The conversion to Christianity did not stop the attacks of the Teutonic knights. In 1410 a combined Polish-Lithuanian army defeated the order at the Battle of Grunwald (or Tannenberg).

TROOP NOTES

Lithuanian cavalry were equipped with a spear that could be thrust or thrown. They also carried a bow. They were fond of skirmishing and ambushes.

MEDIEVAL POLISH

1335 TO 1454 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

King Casimir III the Great, Władysław's son and the last of the Piast rulers, strengthened and expanded the restored Kingdom of Poland, but Silesia was lost to the Holy Roman Empire and Pomerania to the Teutonic Knights. In 1386, Grand Duke Jogaila of Lithuania married Queen Jadwiga of Poland and became King of Poland until his death in 1434. In 1444 Władysław II was killed at the Battle of Varna against the forces of the Ottoman Empire.

TROOP NOTES

The rycerz or knights were supported by czeladz or followers, initially armed with crossbow and called strzelcy (shooters), but by 1400 CE with lance. These at first drew up in a separate second line behind the rycerz, but after 1400 bodies of rycerz and czeladz often alternated in a single line with light cavalry, usually Lithuanians, on its flanks. Infantry were seldom fielded. Town militia formed 10 deep with a front rank equipped with pavise and spear, the remaining ranks with crossbow. Axemen fought the Teutonic Knights effectively in the woods.

HUSSITE

1419 TO 1479 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Hussite Wars arose from the death of the childless King Wenceslas and the claim of Sigismund to the throne of Bohemia. Sigismund was backed by a Papal Bull that proclaimed a crusade against the Hussites. The Hussites defeated Sigismund's forces. In 1423 and 1424 the Hussite factions fought amongst themselves. From 1425 they campaigned in Silesia and Saxony resulting in a further declaration of a new crusade. Further crusading armies were defeated. In 1434 the Taborite and Orebite factions were defeated by the Utraquist faction supported by the Catholics. Following this Sigismund was accepted as King of Bohemia. In 1462 the Church attempted to repudiate the treaty resulting in further wars until 1479.

Hussite Mercenary forces under Jan Jiskra were instrumental in the civil wars of Hungary between 1440 to 1462. They maintained control of the Northern Mining regions, with the full support of the local Hungarian nobility. Their independence was only ended when Jiskra was made a noble of Hungary by King Matthias. Jiskra was also made a commander of the Black army and his troops integrated into it.

TROOP NOTES

The Hussites made a systematic use of battle wagons. The crews probably varied but the Hodetin Ordonnance specified a crew of 2 drivers, 2 handgunners, 6 crossbowmen, 4 flailmen, 4 halberdiers and 2 pavisiers.

Militia were provided from allied cities including Prague.

Note: One base of war wagons in a TuG may be regraded to include light artillery. A base of guns in a war wagon reduces the maximum number of guns not mounted in wagons by 2.

LATER TEUTONIC ORDER

1440 TO 1525 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The vast amount of money required to fulfil the Treaty of Thorn meant the Order was forced to exact harsh taxes from their subjects and were unable to effectively finance the rebuilding of their military strength. Mercenaries were increasingly used by the Order to supplement their forces. Eventually this pushed the previously loyal 'German' colonised areas into revolt. The intervention of a newly trained and more effective Polish army in 1454 saw the Order forces repeatedly defeated. The second treaty of Thorn in 1467 ended the Thirteen Years' War. This treaty finally wrecked the Order as a major military and political force in the Baltic. The list ends with the secularisation of the Duchy of Prussia in 1525.

TROOP NOTES

The Order reflected the changes in Germany. Most crusading knights were now German.

LATER MEDIEVAL POLISH

HISTORICAL NOTES

In 1454 CE, Royal Prussia was incorporated by Poland and the Thirteen Years' War of 1454 to 1466 with the Teutonic state ensued. The Peace of Thorn divided Prussia between Poland and the Teutonic knights. Poland also confronted the Ottoman Empire and the Crimean Tatars in the south, and in the east helped Lithuania fight the Grand Duchy of Moscow. By 1493 a parliament (the General Sejm) had been created.

TROOP NOTES

Polish knights weren't as fully armoured as their western counterparts. They were however drilled and disciplined. Lancer banners and volley banners differed in the proportion of lancers to pocztowi.
