CREATING AN ARMY WITH THE MORTEM ET GLORIAM ARMY LISTS

Use the army lists to create your own customised armies using the Mortem et Gloriam Army Builder.

There are few general rules to follow:

1. An army must have at least 2 generals and can have no more than 4.
2. You must take at least the minimum of any troops noted and may not go beyond the maximum of any.
3. No army may have more than two generals who are Talented or better.
4. Unless specified otherwise, all elements in a UG must be classified identically. Unless specified otherwise, if an optional characteristic is taken, it must be taken by all the elements in the UG for which that optional characteristic is available.
5. Any UGs can be downgraded by one quality grade and/or by one shooting skill (Skilled to Experienced or Experienced to Unskilled) representing less strong, tired, or understrength troops. If any bases are downgraded all in the UG must be downgraded. So Average-Experienced skirmishers can always be downgraded to Poor-Unskilled.
6. Points are shown for troops with all mandatory characteristics applied. Points have been rounded to the nearest whole number. If quality or shooting skill is downgraded, then the points (including the points for any optional characteristics) will need to be adjusted.
7. An army entirely of Cavalry, Chariots, Camelry or Infantry with the Dismountable characteristic may choose the No Camp option.

Where allies are allowed, they must conform to the following rules:

1. An ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list being used.
3. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.
4. Unless specified in the notes, the general must be the same type as the army commander in their own army's list but cannot be legendary.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

Where an internal ally is allowed, and no contingent is specified they must conform to the following rules:

1. Each internal ally must be a minimum of 2 and a maximum of 4 UGs.
2. The total number of troops taken of each type in the entire army must not exceed the maxima for that troop type.
3. They must take enough UGs to get them to at least 50% of the minimums in the list if there is enough allowance for a UG after the core army itself has taken the minimum. For example: An army has 4-12 cavalry (UG size 4,6) and 18-32 spearmen (UG size 6,8,9) as compulsory troops with 2 internal allies. The core army must take 4 cavalry and at least 18 spearmen. The first ally must take 4 cavalry and at least 9 spearmen. The second ally must take 4 cavalry but cannot take the 9 spearmen as this would exceed the 32 spearmen limit for the army.

4. If a list requires a proportion of a troop type to be upgraded or regraded, then the army as a whole must comply with this requirement. Internal allies do not have to comply these requirements. For example: $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of Turcomans must be upgraded from Experienced to Skilled shooting. An internal ally might have all Experienced as long as the army as a whole has $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ Skilled.
5. They can thereafter take any troops up to the maximum to create the rest of the allied contingent.

Usually this results in 1-3 UGs being compulsory and you having full flexibility on the rest.

As a courtesy to your opponent when you deploy your troops, you should describe each UG fully; type, training, quality, protection, melee weaponry, shooting skill and weaponry and characteristics. You should also explain how any unusual troop types in your army function and any special rules including Stakes, Caltrops, Barricades and Obstacles and troop types such as Battle Wagons.

The easiest way to calculate points is to use the downloadable on-line army builder at www.mortem-et-gloriam.co.uk. Use this and all you do is use drop downs for the troop classifications and it does all the work for you. For those who prefer pen and paper, or who want to doodle some approximate designs before loading an army up, we have provided the points values with the lists. If a discrepancy exists in the points values between these lists and the army builder, then the army builder has the correct value.

FRIENDLY AND SCENARIO GAMES

Feel free to vary the troop classifications for friendly and scenario games. An interesting aspect of scenario games can be to see what the effect is from representing troops in a different manner.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION

The scarcity of written sources and the destruction of important manuscripts at Timbuktu makes researching the pre-colonial history of Africa challenging.

Following the desertification of the Sahara, North African history became entwined with the Middle East and Southern Europe while the Bantu expansion swept across much of the central and southern portion of the continent. During the Middle Ages, Islam spread west from Arabia to Egypt, crossing the Maghreb and the Sahel. From the mid-7th century CE, the expansion of the slave trade saw Arabs enslave Africans in greater numbers than had occurred previously.

On the north African coast, the Berbers converted to Islam and established the Almohad and Almoravid dynasties, both of whom fought wars against the Christian kingdoms of Spain (and can be found in the Reconquista set). As the Almohad empire weakened, the Hafsid dynasty was established in Ifriqiya (western Libya, Tunisia, and eastern Algeria). To the west the Zayyanid dynasty established the Kingdom of Tlemcen whilst the Marinids ruled Morocco after overthrowing the Almohads in 1244.

Nubia, south of Egypt, had contact with the Byzantine empire and had already converted to Christianity. The Arab invasions cut Nubia off from the rest of the Christian world, but the Christian Nubian kingdoms were able to hold off the Arabs and the Beja, desert Blemmyes who converted to Islam. To the southeast, the Kingdom of Axum collapsed, to be replaced by the Zagwe dynasty. Around the Horn of Africa, Islam became established and a sultanate was established at Mogadishu. This would be eclipsed in the 13th century by the Kilwa Sultanate further south.

Marginal areas and many oases of the Sahara Desert became controlled by Tuareg tribes. To the south of the Sahara is a large swathe of grassland (savannah) known as the Sudan (not to be confused with the modern countries). In this area arose several empires who became influenced by Islam. These included the Hausa kingdoms, the Mali empire, the Mossi and the Songhai. The Mali empire itself arose to eclipse the Ghana empire (located to the north-west of modern Ghana).

To the south of the Sudan, several kingdoms arose along the west coast of Africa including Benin and Kongo. In southern Africa a series of great kingdoms arose around the Zimbabwe plateau including the Kingdom of Mapungubwe, the kingdom of Zimbabwe, the Kingdom of Mutapa and the Kingdom of Butua.

MAXIMUS ARMY LISTS

CALCULATING POINTS

Army points are calculated as follows:

GENERALS - MAXIMUS

Type of general	Army Commander		Sub-general		Ally general
	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive	Professional	Instinctive
Legendary	1600	1400	n/a	n/a	800	700
Talented	1100	900	850	700	650	600
Competent	700	550	600	450	300	250
Mediocre	250	0	400	250	100	50

CAMPS

Type of camp	Poor	Average	Superior
Unfortified	108	180	252
Fortified	216	360	504
Flexible	180	300	420
Mobile	126	210	294
No camp	378	N/A	N/A

A flexible camp is deployed as a fortified camp when defending and a mobile camp when invading.
No camp deploys a poor mobile camp when defending and no camp at all when invading.

UGs

For each UG multiply the cost shown in the list (adjusting for any optional characteristics) by the number of bases.

NOTES

1. Points values for skirmishers in Magna and Pacto are greater than in Maximus as SuGs shoot at full effect with only two ranks.
2. For further details on how points are calculated visit the Mortem et Gloriam website.

CHRISTIAN NUBIAN

HISTORICAL NOTES

Nubia in the 6th century consisted of three kingdoms, Nobatia, Makuria and Alodia (also referred to as Alwa). The kingdom of Nobatia was the most northern and converted to Christianity around 543 CE. It was annexed by the Kingdom of Makuria in the 7th century. Makuria was in the middle. Alodia was the most southerly, located near the confluence of the Blue and White Nile and modern Khartoum. It converted to Christianity in 580. The Nubians were cut off from the rest of the Christian world by the Arab invasion of Egypt but defeated an Arab invasion in 643. Makuria flourished from the 8th to 12th centuries. Alodia is described as larger and mightier than Makuria. It reached its peak during the 9th to 12th centuries but collapsed during the 13th and 14th centuries and was destroyed around 1500 by the Arabs, Funj or an alliance of both.

TROOP NOTES

The armies were renowned for very effective foot archers, but the commonest infantry weapons of the area in later times were a shortish straight sword and buckler, a stabbing spear and a number of javelins. Mounted troops used both horses and camels throughout the period. Some cavalry riders wore mail armour. Armies generally skirmished against invading Arab armies and tried to avoid pitched battles.

BERBER

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the indigenous nomadic and semi-nomadic tribes that lived in the Maghreb in North Africa including the Sanhaja, Houaras, Zenata, Masmuda, Kutama, Awraba and Barghawata. The Barghawata revolted against Arab rule in 739 CE and maintained their independence until 1058. The Barghawata kingdom practiced a distinctive form of Islam that blended elements from Sunni, Shi'a, and Kharijite traditions, combined with aspects of traditional Berber beliefs and customs. Other confederations practiced more conventional Islamic traditions. Tribal leaders from these confederations went on to establish the dynasties that ruled North Africa.

TROOP NOTES

Berber armies consisted mainly of light cavalry and infantry armed with spears and javelins.

KINGDOM OF GHANA

800 TO 1235 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The kingdom of Ghana was located about four hundred miles north-west of modern Ghana to the north of the upper Niger river in what is now Senegal, south-east Mauritania, and western Mali. Ghana was a regional power before the 9th century CE. Ghana means ruler or war-chief. It is referred to as the land of gold and derived its wealth from controlling the trade routes that led from the gold fields to the south across the Sahara to North Africa. In 1076 Islam became the official faith, probably because of the Almoravids. The idea that the Almoravids invaded Ghana appears to be a misinterpretation of Arab records. The Almoravids may have aided the kingdom in the 11th century. Around 1200, the Sossa, a tribe from the southern part of the empire may have revolted, subjugated and absorbed the kingdom which was finally eclipsed by the rising empire of Mali.

TROOP NOTES

According to the Arab source Al-Bakri, the king could call up 200,000 men including 40,000 archers. The remainder probably used spears or swords. Nothing is known of army structure or tactics. Camels may have been ridden. There are no references to cavalry being used by the army, but it cannot be ruled out. If used, they were probably light horse, riding smaller mounts.

HISTORICAL ENEMIES

Mali Empire 5913.

RULERS

Sonike rulers (to 1076 CE) include Kaya Magan Cissé, Dyabe Cisse, Bassi and Tunka Manin.

Sosso rulers (1087 – 1180) include Kambine Diaresso, Suleiman, Bannu Bubu, Magan Wagadou, Gane, Musa and Birama.

Rulers during Kaniaga occupation were Diara Kante (1180 – 1202) and Soumaba Cisse, a vassal of Soumaoro Kanté (1203 – 1235).

BEJA

831 TO 1500 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Beja were Blemmye who had been ejected from Lower Nubia in the 5th century. In 831 CE they submitted to the Abbasids. With the fall of the Axumite Empire, they occupied the Eritrean Highlands and adjacent coastal regions. They were traditionally divided into six kingdoms, Nagash, Tankish, Belgin, Bazin, Jarin and Qita’a.

TROOP NOTES

Arab sources describe them as "camel people" and carrying long seven-pointed spears. After their submission to the Abbasids, some Beja came under the influence of Bedouin Arab tribes migrating south from Egypt.

KANEM-BORNU

850 TO 1500 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Kanem–Bornu Empire was an empire that existed in modern Chad and Nigeria. The Kanem Empire lasted until around 1380 CE when it was replaced by the Bornu Empire. Kanem was located at the southern end of the trans-Saharan trade route between Tripoli and the region of Lake Chad. The major factor that influenced the later history of the state of Kanem was the early penetration of Islam around 1068. Kanem's expansion peaked in the 13th century. By the end of the 14th century, internal struggles and external attacks had torn Kanem apart. Around 1380, Bulala invaders from the east forced the Kanembu to Bonu on the western edge of Lake Chad. The two peoples merged through inter-marriage, but political authority was retained by the Bornu.

TROOP NOTES

Light cavalry fought with javelins and spears. Heavier cavalry seem to have been introduced from the 11th century onwards. Later images show troops with little protection other than a large shield. Longer spears may have been a reaction to the increased use of cavalry. The Bornu seem to have made extensive use of javelinmen.

RULERS

Duguwa kings, ruling to 1085 CE, included Mune, Arso, Kâtun, Yayoladh, Dalabou, Bozaxhi, Shahin-bey and Samir-agma.

MOGADISHU SULTANATES

896 TO 1500 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

With the rise of Islam, the Horn of Africa came under the influence of Arab traders and the population were gradually converted. During the medieval period, several powerful empires dominated the regional trade in the Horn. The Sultanate of Mogadishu also known as the Kingdom of Magadazo arose as the preeminent power during the 10th, 11th, and 12th centuries before becoming the capital of the Ajuran Sultanate during the early 13th century. The Ajuran Sultanate survived until the 17th century.

HAUSA KINGDOMS

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Western Sudan is the lightly wooded rolling grassland south of the Sahara Desert. The Hausa Kingdoms or Hausaland was a collection of states started by the Hausa people, situated between the Niger River and Lake Chad (modern day northern Nigeria). The kingdoms were first mentioned in the 9th century. The first united Hausa nation arose in the 11th century in Kano. Rivalries between the kingdoms led to periods of domination by others including the Songhai and Kanem. By the 14th century Kano had become the most powerful city-state. Islam was introduced at this time.

TROOP NOTES

Archers were referred to as Yam baka. Poisoned arrows might be used. Cotton quilted armour could be used. Other weapons included javelins, swords, and shields. Long metal spears were used to stop cavalry.

KINGDOM OF BENIN

1100 TO 1503 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The kingdom of Benin was in the south-west region of modern Nigeria. From 1300 CE onwards, the region around Benin City became more united. The kingdom grew rapidly under Ewuare the Great who reigned from 1440 to 1473. Benin City was extensively fortified. From this city Ewuare launched offensive campaigns against Edo and Yoruba tribes. The Portuguese first established a trading post in Benin City in 1485.

TROOP NOTES

Benin warriors were armed with small bows and poisoned arrows, javelins, spears, swords, and shields. Europeans describe the Benin army as large, disciplined, and able to keep order. Crossbows and handguns were introduced by the Portuguese in 1485 but the numbers too few to justify separate categorisation.

AYYUBID IN IFRIQIYA

1172 TO 1207 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

A small Ayyubid army led by Sharif al-Din Qaraqusg captured Libya and Tunisia (Ifriqiya) in 1172 CE. It relied on allied Bedouin tribes and received little support from Egypt. It briefly allied with the Banu Ghaniya in the fight against the Almohads.

TROOP NOTES

The Ayyubid army that captured Ifriqiya then had to rely on local resources to hold the territory.

KILWA SULTANATE

1180 TO 1506 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list represents the Swahili states that were established on the east African coast and islands. In the 13th century, the city of Kilwa, an island off the coast, took control of the gold trade from Mogadishu and became powerful. At the zenith of its power in the 15th century, the Kilwa Sultanate owned or claimed overlordship over the mainland cities of Malindi, Inhambane and Sofala and the island-states of Mombassa, Pemba, Zanzibar, Mafia, Comoro, and Mozambique. The Kilwa Sultanate was not a centralized state but more a confederation of commercial cities. The Portuguese first arrived in 1489 and in 1506 temporarily overthrew the existing government.

TROOP NOTES

Armies were mostly formed from local troops. Rulers maintained small units of Muslim cavalry.

MALI EMPIRE

1235 TO 1500 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Mali Empire arose during the 11th and 12th centuries following the decline of the Ghana Empire to the north. Sundiata Keita led the conquest of Sosso in around 1235 CE and gave the Mali Empire access to the trans-Saharan trade routes. His nephew Mansa Musa made a Hajj pilgrimage to Mecca during the reign of the Mamluk Sultan Baibars (1260 to 1277). Musa Keita became emperor in about 1312 and made a pilgrimage to Mecca from 1324 to 1326. His generous gifts to Mamluk Egypt and his expenditure caused gold to be greatly devalued. The latter half of the 14th century was a period of weak emperors, conflicts, and disunity. From 1507 neighbouring states were eroding the empire. In 1542, the Songhai invaded the capital city of Niani but were unsuccessful in conquering the empire.

TROOP NOTES

The Mali Empire maintained a semi-professional, full-time army to defend its borders. In the 14th century the army was divided into northern and southern commands. Horon were freemen who appear with their own arms. Sofa were slave troops equipped by the state. Troops were usually equipped with large reed or animal hide shields and stabbing spears. Warriors with bows tended to come from the south. Arrows were iron-tipped and often poisoned. Cavalry used lances and swords. Imperial cavalry wore mail armour and carried shields.

BANTU KINGDOMS

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Kingdom of Mapungubwe arose around the confluence of the Shashe and Limpopo rivers in the 12th century CE. Leaders were separated from and higher in rank than its inhabitants. It left no written record. People from the Kingdom of Mapungubwe settled on the Zimbabwe plateau and the kingdom of Zimbabwe was founded in around 1220 CE. The construction of elaborate stone buildings and walls reached its apex in the kingdom. The city of Great Zimbabwe appears to have been still inhabited in the early 1500s. It is the most prominent pre-colonial civilization in southern Africa. In approximately 1430 prince Nyatsimba Mutota from the Great Zimbabwe travelled north and founded the Kingdom of Mutapa. Within a generation, Mutapa eclipsed Great Zimbabwe as the economic and political power in Zimbabwe. In the south, the smaller Kingdom of Butua was established.

TROOP NOTES

Broad stabbing spears and bows appear to be the main weapons in use. Hide shields were carried.

MOSSI

1250 TO 1500 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Mossi Kingdoms, sometimes referred to as the Mossi Empire, were several different powerful kingdoms which dominated the region of the upper Volta River. Centralization of the political and military powers of the kingdoms began in the 13th century and led to conflicts between the Mossi kingdoms, the Mali Empire, and the Songhai.

TROOP NOTES

The Emperor of Mali, Mansa Musa, compared an enemy, believed to be the Mossi, to the Tartars. The Mossi relied on swift, marauding cavalry to achieve their objectives.

KONGO

1350 TO 1512 CE

HISTORICAL NOTES

This list covers the Kongo, the Ndongo and other looser confederations such as the Laongo, Kakongo and Ngoyo. In the 13th century many states that occupied the Congo basin combined to form the Kongo kingdom that dominated the region in the 15th century. During the latter half of the 15th century the Kongo came into the contact with the expanding Ndongo to their south.

TROOP NOTES

Metal working was practised from the 4th century CE and blacksmiths were known for their skill at working metal. The core of later armies consisted of infantry with swords and shields in tight formations. Most warriors fought in open order with bows, spears, and swords. They were predominantly archers, but the bravest warriors were prepared to close rapidly. Levies were called up in times of emergency. Cavalry was not used as horses were unable to survive the climate. Fortifications were used extensively; temporary forts were built on campaigns. From 1491 the Portuguese introduced the crossbow and handgun to the tribes.

SONGHAI

HISTORICAL NOTES

The Songhai Empire was a black trading state in Africa that by the 9th century had expanded throughout the area surrounding the great bend of the Niger river. It established contact with the Muslim trading post of Gao and by the 11th century Gao had become the kingdom's capital. In the 13th century Songhai was conquered by the expanding Mali empire. The Songhai rose in rebellion. Gao was regained by the mid-14th century, but it took until the 1460's to recapture Timbuktu. At its peak in 1493 it extended from the central area of what is now Nigeria to the Atlantic coast and included parts of Burkina Faso, Gambia, Guinea, Mali, Mauretania, Niger, and Senegal.

TROOP NOTES

The king apparently had a royal guard of 3,000 cavalry. They were armoured with spears and javelins. The guard infantry had iron helmets, cotton armour, a spear and sword. The Suna were an elite unit of bowmen. The army had heavy cavalry, wearing quilted armour, and carrying a spear, most of which came from the Hausa region. Light cavalry came from a variety of tribes and used javelins. Camel riders came from the Tuareg and Berber tribes. These seem to have been of poor quality and needed to be stiffened by cavalry. They were often used only in a logistical role. The infantry came from different tribes. The Akan carried thick broad swords, some with double or treble blades. The Bornu used archers and javelinmen. Most infantry were of poor quality. They also supplied a large cavalry force.
